Western leaders arrive in Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Leaders of the Western world, past and present, arrived in Cairo Friday for what Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin called the day "of our darkest dreams" — the funeral of slain Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

President-designate Hosni Mubarak greeted Begin — who defied an assassination threat to attend Saturday's funeral — with an emotional embrace.

An extraordinary American delegation included three former presidents, Jimmy Carter, Gerald Ford and Richard Nixon, and the man who Sadat made famous to Egyptians as "my friend Henry" — former Secretary of State Kissinger.

Arriving aboard Air Force One after some delicate protocol maneuvers over how to seat the former presidents, the U.S. delegation was led by Secretary of State Alexander Haig, who paid a call on Mubarak and was staying on after the funeral for more serious Mideast talks.

Security — which slipped so fatefully on Tuesday when distracted bodyguards failed to save Sadat from four Moslem assassins — was extremely tight. Army sappers with mine detectors combed the sands alongside the funeral route, itself guarded by hundreds of troops standing stoically under a desert sun, bayonets fixed.

One of several groups claiming responsibility for Sadat's assassination said in Beirut Thursday it would kill Begin and several other dignitaries it did not name.

In addition, street fighting between police and Moslem fundamentalists in the Nile River city of Asyut, 300 miles south of Cairo, raised fears of disturbances spreading to the capital.

Officials said 25 people were killed in the Asyut fighting Thursday. They said the city was quiet Friday, but reporters prevented from passing a roadblock north of the city said columns of helmeted police sped towards Asyut.

Mubarak, scheduled to be installed as president after a national referendum Tuesday, warned he would tolerate no public disorder and said "the Asyut incidents are finished."

Cairo itself was eerily quiet on the second day of a four-day Moslem holiday but police were posted around mosques in case fundamentalists agitating for an Iran-type theocracy try to stage banned demonstrations.

Interviewed by Barbara Walters on ABC World News Tonight, Sadat's widow Jihan said she always expected that someday her husband would die a violent death.

"I expected him to be killed. He was too outspoken. But my husband, he never expected it. He would not wear

Ambulance merger may follow licensing

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The licensing of a second Twin Falls ambulance service Friday may prove anticlimactic after all.

There's now talk that of one of the companies may buy out the other.

The county commissioners issued a one-year license to Twin Falls Emergency Medical Services, owned by Dennis Brodigan, late Friday afternoon. And under the agreement, emergency calls will be issued to both the new firm and Magic Valley Emergency Services, owned by Cloyce Edwards, on a rotating basis by the county sheriff and Twin Falls police.

But this does not end the controversy surrounding the new ambulance service.

It was revealed Friday that a merger or buy-out between the two firms was the subject of a closed-door meeting Wednesday between the commissioners and representatives of the two services.

"In the secret meeting, we discussed two options: a merger between the two companies and the possibility of one of the companies buying out the other one," MVES operator Calvin Edwards said Friday.

"What has actually been discussed is for Mr. Brodigan's service to buy our service out.

"We should meet sometime next week to discuss a sale," Edwards said.

Edwards and Brodigan discarded the concept of a merger after meeting several times Thursday. Following these meetings, Edwards met with the commissioners and recommended that they issue Brodigan an operator's license.

"Neither a merger or a sale can be properly completed unless both firms are licensed, so we believed it was in everyone's best interest for a license to be issued," Edwards said.

Commission Chairman Ann Cover said no statement on why the commission decided to issue Brodigan a license will be made until county Prosecutor Harry DeHann "prepares a fact-finding for release sometime next week."

Brodigan said the merger discussions were fruitless, but "we're in the ballpark for a buy-out. We're close, and it looks good for an agreement to be reached next week.

"However, if a sale does not come about, we are still willing to compete with the other service," Brodigan said.

Both Brodigan and Edwards said a sale of MVES to Brodigan's service would be in the best interest of the public.

"We'd like to keep it out of the courts, or whatever," Edwards said. "It would be best for everyone if we can get along rather than fight each other."

Edwards claimed that two ambulance services operating in Twin Falls County would not only be hard on the two firms but ultimately would hurt county residents.

"The Sheriff's Office will have to rotate calls, but lots of times, people have a personal preference about who

State potato predictions: No bust or boon this year

TWIN FALLS — The first estimate of national potato production, released Friday by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, indicates that growers produced an in-between crop.

Production in Idaho virtually is unchanged from last year, while total U.S. production increased about 8 percent, according to the estimate.

The report appears to confirm projections that Idaho potato growers will enjoy a profitable year. However, it showed a larger crop in Idaho and the nation than predicted by the growers, who were hoping for a year comparable to last year's crop, which brought Idaho growers a record $450 million.

Coming Sunday:
A look at potato harvests in the Magic Valley

"It should be decent," said Twin Falls commodity broker Alex Sinclair. "It isn't the red-hot animal a lot of people were hoping for."

The USDA report estimates potato production in Idaho for 1981 at about 80 million hundredweight, a 1-percent increase in production from last year. The average yield in the state was estimated to be 246 hundredweight per acre, the lowest yield since 1977.

Wholesale prices see lowest rise in two years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices rose just 0.2 percent in September — its lowest level in more than two years.

A drop in new car prices that usually occurs in the fall was a big factor for the slight increase, the Labor Department reported Friday.

The small increase in prices paid by wholesalers for finished goods last month represents an annual inflation rate of only 2.2 percent, quite a change from the double-digit inflation of last year and early this year.

The September figure represents the smallest monthly increase since August 1978, when wholesale prices edged up 0.1 percent, the report said.

Stable food prices and a once-a-year dealer discount for new cars were largely responsible for the encouraging report.

The 0.2 percent seasonally adjusted figure — which eliminates changes that occur at the same time every year such as normal price movements, seasonal discounts and marketing cycles — follows four months of increases in the 3 percent to 4 percent range.

The slowdown was due mainly to a 3.7 percent decline in prices for passenger cars and a 5.8 percent price decrease for light trucks, representing the once-a-year "liquidation allowance" that automobile manufacturers give dealers as a sales incentive at the end of the model year.

The department said if the "liquidation allowance" had not been figured into the September figures, inflation at the wholesale level would have increased 0.7 percent. That works out roughly to an 8.7 percent annual rate, said Bureau of Labor Statistics economist Andrew Clem.

Consumer food prices at the wholesale level were unchanged in September, following a 0.2 percent increase in August and an unusual 1.5 percent jump in July.

Prices for processed poultry fell 8.2 percent last month following a sharp August increase, and pork prices turned down after no change in August. Prices for sugar, fish and vegetables also fell. On the other hand, prices for beef and veal moved up 3.3 percent in September, following a decrease in August.

Energy prices rose slightly last month after four consecutive months of decline.

The department said natural gas prices rose considerably more in September than in August and gasoline prices continued to fall, but less than in any of the previous four months. Heating oil prices edged down 0.1 percent in September, significantly less than previous monthly decreases.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said the minimal increase in wholesale prices in September "is an encouraging development in the battle against inflation."

Administrators criticize Fed's money policy

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UPI) — Three top administration officials Friday criticized the Federal Reserve Board for keeping the nation's money supply too tight.

But they said they were not blaming the Fed's chairman.

The three — Treasury Secretary Donald Regan, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige and presidential counselor Edwin Meese — carefully avoided blaming Fed Chairman Paul Volcker for the tight money policy that has kept interest rates high, directing their criticism at "other members" of the board.

In a confusing, mixed signal, however, Vice President George Bush told an audience in Washington the Fed is "doing the right thing" and the administration would not try to influence the board's decisions.

Previous criticism of Volcker and the tight money policy by Regan and others prompted Volcker to complain directly to President Reagan, who came out publicly in support of the Fed chairman.

But Meese indicated he, Regan and Baldrige — attending a conference of the Business Council, a group of leading corporate executives — had the approval of Reagan to criticize the Fed in general.

"He (Reagan) has indicated both the understanding and the general approval of what Don Regan has been saying, that we ought to be within the Federal Reserve money supply targets," Meese told reporters.

"Let me just say it's not a campaign to torture Paul Volcker at all," Meese said, adding "there is a great deal of agreement between Don Regan and Paul Volcker, but that agreement is not always shared by other members of the Fed."

The Fed's target was to allow the money supply to grow between 3.5 and 6 percent this year. Instead, its growth has been only 1.7 percent for the 12 months ending in August, helping keep interest rates high and stifling growth.

Saturday briefing

Philly teachers ready for jail

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — About 600 striking teachers and aides marched around City Hall Friday in a solidarity move and some said they were ready to go to jail rather than return to work.

Schools Superintendent Michael Marcase said the district would abide by a court back-to-work order and reopen schools Monday even though it is a public holiday — Columbus Day — and teachers who show up will collect double time pay.

Marcase said the district's 213,000 students would go back to school Tuesday "in the event there are enough teachers to teach them."

NOW opens annual convention

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With time running out on the Equal Rights Amendment, the National Organization for Women opened its annual convention Friday promising to wage a last-ditch fight "every inch with every ounce we can give."

The deadline for 38 states to ratify the proposed amendment is next June 30, but the drive stalled three states short over four years ago and prospects for adoption are dim.

NOW President Eleanor Smeal said at a news conference that if ERA fails, there will be less of a chance of closing the wage gap between men and women, or an increase in an already significant political gap between the sexes.

The 1980 election showed the first significant difference in the way men and women voted, according to a variety of polls NOW distributed, and the gap is growing wider, Ms. Smeal said.

Judge convicted of soliciting

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — San Diego Municipal Court Judge Louis Wenzell Friday was convicted of five counts of soliciting prostitution by an eight-woman, four-man Harbor Municipal Court jury.

Wenzell, 39, named to the court in 1977 by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., remains on the bench pending an investigation by the state Commission on Judicial Performance.

During the two-day trial, three admitted prostitutes who were granted immunity testified they had sex for money with Wenzell between September 1980 and April 1981. Three other counts, involving two other prostitutes, were dismissed.

The charges were filed against Wenzell after police found his canceled personal checks and a credit card receipt during a raid of B & J Janitorial Services in San Diego, which had been a front for prostitution.

Reagan, Alda most admired

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Ronald Reagan and actor Alan Alda led the 10 Most Admired Men named by Good Housekeeping magazine Friday — a list that included the late Egyptian President Anwar El-Sadat.

The magazine listed 72 of the "world's most prominent" men in its September issue and asked readers to pick their first, second and third choices for the men they admire most.

Reagan led the list, and Alda was No. 2.

Behind them, in order, were Pope John Paul II, Billy Graham, Sadat, Bob Hope, Phil Donahue, Walter Cronkite, Prince Charles and Jerry Falwell.

The list will be published in the magazine's January issue, a spokesman for Good Housekeeping said Friday.

Bess Truman leaves hospital

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Bess Truman went by ambulance Friday to her home from a hospital where she had spent 12 days recuperating from a mild stroke.

Mrs. Truman, 96, was listed in fair condition at 8 a.m. CDT Friday when she was dismissed from Research Medical Center. A hospital spokesman said she will have constant nursing care and will continue to receive fluids, calories and vitamins through a nasal tube.

The wife of former President Harry S. Truman suffered a mild stroke Sept. 26 in her Independence, Mo., home, but was not hospitalized until the next day, said her personal physician, Dr. Wallace Graham. The stroke apparently was caused by a temporary spasm of a blood vessel in her head.

Idahoan pleads in Boyce case

BOISE (UPI) — A 41-year-old woman accused of hiding convicted spy Christopher Boyce at her Idaho summer home pleaded innocent Friday to harboring a fugitive and was ordered to appear for trial on Nov. 17.

"I am not guilty," a nervous, but smiling Gloria Ann White told U.S. Magistrate Jim Christensen. The judge then set the date for the trial, to be held in Moscow.

Investigators allege Boyce stayed at Mrs. White's summer home near Bonner's Ferry for more than two months following his 1979 escape from a federal prison in Lompoc, Calif.

Boyce, who was convicted of selling CIA satellite secrets to the Soviet Union, was free for 21 months until his recapture Aug. 21 in Port Angeles, Wash.

U.S. leaders pay final respects

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Three former American presidents brought together by the murder of the man they worked with to seek peace in the Middle East, began to pay final respects Friday to Anwar Sadat.

The U.S. delegation was one of the most extraordinary ever sent abroad.

"If we allow our grief to stay us from the tasks which Anwar El-Sadat began, we will have done him a far greater injustice than the assassins who took his life," Secretary of State Alexander Haig said on arrival of Air Force One in Cairo.

"There could be no finer memorial to Anwar Sadat than to complete the task of bringing to the Middle East a full and comprehensive peace, and to Egypt the better life he sought for his people," Haig said of the Egyptian president who made the first treaty between an Arab nation and Egypt.

The U.S. delegation included Haig's predecessor, Henry Kissinger, who had journeyed hundreds of miles on shuttles that often ended in Cairo and talks ith Sadat, who referred to Kissinger as "my friend Henry."

Those shuttles led to Sinai disengagement agreements in which Sadat retained territory won in the Yom Kippur war, restoring Egyptian pride after defeats in three wars with Israel.

Two presidents for whom Kissinger labored, Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford, were aboard the aircraft. Both regarded Sadat as a bulwark in the search for peace.

The third was Jimmy Carter, who brought Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin to America to hammer out the Camp David agreements.

The ex-presidents made an agreement to say nothing to reporters that might detract from the solemnity of Sadat's funeral Saturday.

Soon after arrival, Haig and the delegation paid formal calls on vice President Hosni Mubarak, Sadat's widow, Jihan, and the speaker of the Egyptian people's assembly.

Carter wept on the White House lawn Thursday as President Reagan saw the delegation off with a warning to those who rejoiced at Sadat's death that "the memory of this good and brave man will vanquish you."

Reagan, himself the target of an assassin on March 30, and Vice President Bush were advised by their security advisers not to make the trip because of the potential risk to them. He told the delegation: "May God keep you in the hollow of his hand."

Haig described the atmosphere aboard the plane from Washington as "electric" when the ex-presidents took their seats.

Also aboard was a congressional delegation, the Egyptian Ambassador to the United States, Ashraf Ghorbal, and Mrs. Rosalynn Carter.

they want. Many times, someone calls the ambulance service direct. The result is two ambulances arriving at the scene," Edwards said.

"Yes, this is inefficient, but also, no one likes having to pay two ambulance bills," said Edwards.

Accusations that the county violated an ambulance inspection law apparently have softened slightly in light of Friday's action.

Brodigan wasn't taking a hard-line stand on the accusations Friday, but he said, "It shouldn't be a dead issue. We should learn a lesson from it."

According to Sheriff James Munn and a check of county records, a 30-month period passed without the mandatory annual inspections of ambulances belonging to MVES.

Cover said the commissioners are not able to respond at this time to the alleged violation of the county ordinance. However, she said an annual ambulance inspection was specified in Brodigan's license.

"Medicine is perhaps the fastest growing area today, and checks are needed to make sure proper and the most update equipment and practices are being used," Cover said.

Brodigan's Twin Falls Emergency Medical Services will not begin making emergency runs until Monday because of "potential problems with dispatching."

"We'll be gearing up the dispatch system over the weekend and will start at 8 a.m. Monday," Brodigan said. "Until that time, we'll only be taking non-emergency calls."

No specific time has been scheduled for more talks of a sale between Brodigan and Edwards.

his bullet-proof vest because he thought it wasn't manly."

Mrs. Sadat said she tried to reach her husband when he was shot but a security guard pulled her down. "My husband knew it was happening. His last word was: 'No!'" she said.

"In our darkest dreams it would never have occurred to us that one day we should come to Cairo in such circumstances," Begin said upon arrival. He euglogized Sadat, his partner in the Camp David peace process, as "a great leader."

"There can be no finer memorial to Anwar El-Sadat," Haig said upon his arrival, "than to bring to the Middle East a full and comprehensive peace and to Egypt the better life he sought for his people."

To "allow our grief to impede the task that Anwar El-Sadat began . . . will have done him a greater injustice than the assassins who took his life," Haig added.

Carter, who with Sadat and Begin negotiated the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty at Camp David, expressed the grief of many who came in their dealings with him to regard Anwar Sadat as a close personal friend.

"The only time I had that bad a day was when my own Daddy died," Carter told reporters aboard Air Force One.

Sadat, his body still resting at the armed forces hospital, was to be buried next to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier barely 400 yards from the spot where he was gunned down while reviewing a military parade Tuesday.

The government has discounted the claims of various groups that took responsibility for the assassination, saying the gunmen were four Moslem fanatics who acted alone.

Today's weather

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Gooding areas:
Showers today, decreasing Sunday. Light winds becoming westerly 10 to 15 mph this afternoon. Highs in the middle 50s today and near 50 Sunday. Lows in the middle 30s.

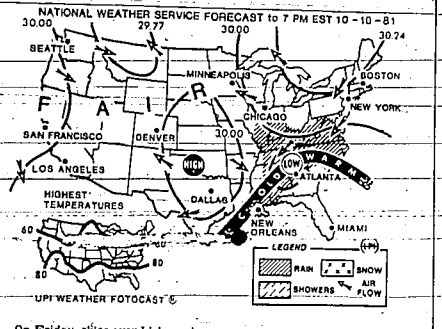
Camas Prairie, Hailey, Wood River valley:
Showers today and Sunday. Snow level down to 5,000 feet by this evening. Highs 45 to 50 both days. Lows in the 20s.

Northern Nevada and Utah:
Variable clouds with chance of rain from Elko northward today. Cooler and windy Sunday with increasing chance of rain. Snow level near 6,000 feet. Highs in the upper 50s and 60s today and near 60 Sunday. Lows in the 30s.

Synopsis:
A moist, cold storm will cross Idaho this weekend, bringing rain to the valleys and snow in the mountains.

The surge of clouds and rain will hit the state hardest today, then begin decreasing on Sunday.

With the snow level expected to be down near 5,000 feet by this evening, locally heavy snow is possible in the mountains today and tonight. Hunters, woodcutters and others traveling into higher country should be alert to the likelihood of snow, slick or muddy roads and colder temperatures.



On Friday, skies over Idaho and the Magic Valley were mostly cloudy, but the sun peeked through periodically. There were some snow showers in the central mountains, where the snow level was near 6,000 feet. Temperatures were mild, with the warmest in the state 68 degrees at Weiser and the coldest 25 at Stanley.

In Twin Falls, the pollen count Friday was 20 per cubic meter of air.

Most harvesting operations in the Magic Valley, along with other outside farm work and hay drying, will be interrupted by widely scattered showers through Wednesday. The lowest soil temperature this morning should be a little above 45 degrees.

The extended forecast calls for showers ending Monday, followed by partly cloudy skies Tuesday and Wednesday. Temperatures will be cool, with highs mostly in the 50s and lows in the 30s.

Elsewhere in the nation Friday, the warmest temperature was 94 degrees at Yuma and Gila Bend, in Ariz., and McAllen, Texas, and the coolest was 26 at Alpena, Mich.

ELDER STATESMAN

Former Gov. Smylie talks on the issues

Former Idaho Gov. Robert Smylie, now an author and a "semi-retired" lawyer, predicts that Idahoans will eventually demand a return in full funding of social services — even if it means increased taxes. Staff writer Bruce Hammond interviewed Smylie this week, and a full report on the elder statesman's views will be in Sunday's Times-News.

ANOTHER RECORD?

Will this year's potato harvest match last year's?

The second part of our annual harvest series continues this week in the farm and business section, Page E-1, with a look at the potato harvest. If this year's crops top last year's production, it will be a record-breaking year. 1980's harvest earned more than $450 million for farmers, an all-time record. For an in-depth look at the prospects for this year's harvest, read staff writer Steve Lipson's potato stories on Sunday.

Researchers win Nobel for interpreting how brain works

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Two Americans and a Swede whose revolutionary research showed how the human brain interprets its environment shared the 1981 Nobel Prize for Medicine Friday.

Roger Sperry, 68, working at Caltech in Pasadena, Calif., won half the $180,000 prize for "extracting the secrets" held by the two hemispheres of the brain.

The other half of the medicine's most coveted prize went to Canadian-born naturalized American David H. Hubel, 55, and Swede Torsten N. Wiesel, 57, both of the Harvard Medical School.

Hubel learned of his award while taking a shower at his home. "I didn't expect to get it but one always hopes," he said. "There's so much exciting work going on in the field. It's kind of a lottery."

Caltech officials said Sperry was on a camping trip with his wife somewhere in Baja, Calif., and might not even be aware that he had won.

Sperry's colleagues, however, met with reporters to discuss his research into the functional specialization of the left and right hemispheres of the brain, which led to the surgical treatment of epileptics.

"Caltech is obviously enormously pleased and proud of one of its most distinguished professors," Caltech President Marvin Goldberger said.

"We can take credit only for providing him an atmosphere in which he could carry on his work," he said. "I can't imagine anyone in the scientific field not feeling thrilled that he has won this prize."

Sperry and Hubel were the 56th and 57th Americans to win the Medicine prize, dominated in recent years by U.S. scientific research.

In the past 10 years, 17 Americans have won or shared the medicine prize.

Sperry's research with monkeys and epileptics helped him create a map of the human brain. He proved the left side to be "cognitive," handling language and conceptual thinking, while the right side is intuitive and creative.

His work also demonstrated how different functions are controled in separate regions of the brain.

His research helped surgeons treating brain damage as in the case of James Brady, the former White House press spokesman shot in the head in the assassination attempt on President Reagan.

"This work shows why man has a soul and an identity," said Prof. Kjell Fuxe of the Karolinska Institute awarding the prize.

Hubel and Wiesel, the fifth Swede to win the award, expanded knowledge of the way a person receives and processes information through the eyes.

The official citation by the Karolinska Institute praised them for "a breakthrough in research into the ability of the brain to interpret the code of the impulse image from the eyes."

It singled out their illustration of how visual experience in infancy determines an individual's perception of the world. "They proved the brain is not a computer," said Fuxe. "It has its own special characteristics and we can now begin to build new models of the brain."

The scientists worked from the cells through the entire visual system, finding that more than half the cells receive signals from both eyes — thus exphining how two separate images are unified in the brain.

"We can describe what happens," said Wiesel, 57, a native of Uppsala, Sweden who was the fifth Swede to win the award. "We don't know why it happens. This is something for the future."

The research could eventually be important to people with damaged sight. The two scientists found that among animals with vision troubles, the cells in the visual cortex were profoundly changed. It could also help explain the brain's intellectual functions.

But Hubel, 55, a native of Windsor, Ontario, said the discovery also shattered the myth the brain can't be understood.

The awards were the fourth and fifth to the Harvard Medical School since they were instituted in 1901 and the fourth to the California Institute of Technology.

Bush lambasts 'egomaniac'

Libyans denied visas for lauding assassination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President George Bush, reflecting a hardening of the administration's policy toward Libya, Friday called "egomaniac" Moammar Khadafy the world's No. 1 terrorist, capable of starting World War III to make headlines.

The scathing remarks by Bush came as the administration, in its first move to penalize an Arab foe of Anwar Sadat since the assassination of the Egyptian president, barred Libya's foreign minister from traveling to Washington for a speaking engagement.

Libya's leader Khadafy was a major enemy of Sadat, and a bitter opponent of the American sponsored Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty the Egyptian leader signed at the White House in 1979.

Bush told the National Press Club the sale of advanced surveillance planes to Saudia Arabia is in the vital national interests of the United States. He said the sale will support American foreign policy in an area where "Soviet-sponsored radicalism is a threat to our friends and our vital interests."

Bush called Khadafy and Cuba's Fidel Castro "bit players" for the Soviet Union but focused on the Libyan leader as an "egomaniac who would trigger World War III just to make headlines."

Bush called Khadafy the "world's principal terrorist" who is dangerous to "Egypt, to Israel and to peace."

Khadafy, who has stored thousands of Soviet tanks, planes and other arms for Moscow's use in a possible Middle East war, welcomed the demise of the Egyptian president and American ally.

There was jubilation in the streets of Tripoli and many other Arab cities upon the news of Sadat's assassination at a military parade in Cairo Tuesday.

"We do not think official Libyan spokesmen for Khadafy are entitled to a public forum here at a time when Khadafy has cheered the assassination of President Sadat," said State Department spokesman Joseph Reap.

Because of the poor relations between Washington and Tripoli, the administration was not expected to allow Foreign Secretary Abdel-Ati Al-Obeidi to travel from the U.N. General Assembly to address a group of Arab-Americans in Washington.

Applauding Sadat's death ensured the denial.

The administration has accused Khadafy of fostering worldwide terrorism, including assaults against dissident Libyans living in the United States. In April, it closed Libya's People's Bureau in Washington and expelled 21 diplomats and their families.

"Our obligation to U.N. delegates is to allow their entry into New York for the purpose stated, not necessarily to travel throughout the U.S. at will," Reap said. "Mr. Al-obeidi was granted a visa on an expeditious basis in order to attend the U.N. General Assembly."

"We have indicated to Libya that we look forward to improving our bilateral relations at such a time as Libya begins to behave in accordance with generally accepted terms of international behavior," he said.

Reagan's nuclear policy attacked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's decision to revitalize the nuclear power industry was attacked Friday as an irresponsible safety and economic policy that could lead to the proliferation of nuclear weapons.

"In terms of economics, nuclear power is the most expensive, most inefficient and most government-subsidized way to boil water ever designed by man," said William Winpisinger, president of the International Association of Machinists.

"In terms of the nation's health, each nuclear power plant, with its potential for radiation release and on-site nuclear waste dump, is a communal cause of cancer," he added, calling the new proposals "a kamikaze act."

Winpisinger's attack came at a Capitol Hill news conference attended by several members of Congress, Ralph Nader and other critics of nuclear power. A subcommittee of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee also announced it will investigate Reagan's new policy at a hearing Oct. 23.

The administration on Thursday unveiled a push for speedier licensing of nuclear power plants and lifted former President Jimmy Carter's ban on commercial recycling of spent reactor fuel.

Reagan also urged aggressive breeder reactor development at public expense and swift federal action, together with states and industry, to prove the feasibility of high-level atomic waste disposal.

"The president has asked the federal government to increase subsidies to an industry that has already received $40 billion over the last 35 years; to finance the technically outmoded and financially disastrous breeder program; crate an artificial market for plutonium producers and to take responsibility for the industry's most serius and expensive problem, the disposal of deadly radioactive waste," Nader said.

Nader said the policy is "irresponsible in terms of both public health and safety and the nation's economy."

He said Carter and former President Gerald Ford "placed a ban on commercial reprocessing for good reason. If the United States moves forward with reprocessing, it will make it difficult, if not impossible, to oppose it abroad.

"The president's program will exacerbate the proliferation of nuclear weapons world-wide," Nader added.

Satellite sees comet ram into sun

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An errant comet smashed into the sun two years ago, releasing the energy of 1 million hydrogen bombs and scattering cometary debris millions of miles into space, the Naval Research Laboratory reported Friday.

The collision, discovered a few weeks ago by scientists analyzing data from a Defense Department satellite, marks the first time a celestial body has been seen hitting the sun — although it was assumed such events occurred.

Photographs produced by a coronagraph aboard the satellite showed a huge glowing cloud of what apparently were fine grains of dust from the comet spreading out like a halo millions of miles above the sun's surface 11 hours after impact.

Dr. Donald J. Michels, chief scientist for the research laboratory's satellite instrument that made the discovery, said astronomers at ground-based observatories and other satellite experimenters are reviewing their data to look for other effects from the collision.

"We don't really know what to look for," he said. "We'll try to see if we can see anything unusual in the right place at the right time."

In terms of comparative mass, he said the comet was "like a pebble dropping into an ocean." But Michels said the energy released was immense — equal to 1 million hydrogen bombs or 1,000 times the energy used by the United States in an entire year.

Michels said the comet, photographed streaking toward the sun at 640,000 miles per hour, had a tail of gas and dust more than 3 million miles long and was as bright as the planet Venus. Yet he said there have been no reports that the comet was seen from Earth before its collision.

He said this might have been because its probable orbit was orlented in such a way that it approached the sun from behind. In relation to Earth, and it would have been difficult to see from Earth. The best observation sites on the Earth would have been in the Southern Hemisphere, where there are few observatories.

Michels said comet specialists believe the comet was a previously unidentified member of a rare group called "sungrazers" because they come so close to the sun before whipping out into deep space. Only eight sungrazers have been seen in the past 300 years.

Comets are of great scientific interest because they are believed to contain material left over from the beginning of the solar system 4.6 billion years ago. The generally accepted theory is that a comet nucleus is like a dirty snowball — a mixture of dust and frozen water and ices of other compounds.

Report tells of plan to assassinate Reagan

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Reagan did not attend the funeral of Anwar Sadat because of reports that teams of former Green Berets were ordered by Libyan President Moammar Khadafy to assassinate Reagan, NBC Magazine said Friday night.

CIA agents reported that Khadafy ordered Reagan's assassination after two Libyan jets were shot down by U.S. planes on Aug. 19, 1981, said NBC.

The FBI and the Secret Service feared the hit teams would try to kill Reagan and Vice President George Bush while they attended Sadat's funeral.

The White House said Wednesday that Reagan and Bush would not go to Egypt for "security reasons."

A Secret Service spokesman Friday said, "We don't have any investigation in that area. As far as I know that's erroneous. We have no investigation of such a plot or conspiracy."

An FBI spokesman said, "I can't confirm it or deny it. We didn't cooperate with the program."

NBC said the FBI and the Secret Service are focusing their investigation on Fort Bragg in Fayetteville, N.C., home base of the Green Berets. The agents are checking out reports that former members of the U.S. special forces are being recruited by the Libyans to train and man the assassination teams, said NBC.

No active members of the armed forces are involved in the plot, said NBC, only former members of the Green Berets.

The report described the former Green Berets as renegades who have retired or who have left the Army for other reasons and have been offered huge sums of money to help the Libyans in their plot to kill Reagan.

AWACS proposal draws cautious optimism from Reagan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan said Friday he is "cautiously optimistic" about the chances of his proposal to sell AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia clearing the Senate.

Vice President George Bush warned that "danger lies ahead" if it does not.

Senate sources said Alaska Republicans Ted Stevens and Frank Murkowski, previously listed as uncommitted, are leaning against the $8.5 billion Saudi arms package in its present form. According to a UPI survey, this would give opponents of the sale 54 votes — three more than needed to veto it — and leave 16 senators still uncommitted.

"Well, I'm cautiously optimistic," Reagan told reporters as he left the White House in his ranch clothes to board a helicopter for Camp David, Md.

The president denied he is "turning up the heat" on reluctant senators. "No, I'm just pleading with them," he said with a broad smile.

But an aide to Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, said Grassley was told the nomination of his choice for a U.S. attorney in Cedar Rapids could be speeded up if the administration knew how he would vote on the arms sale.

The aide said Grassley is leaning against the sale and "rejected that overture on the part of the White House" and has not changed his position.

"No single foreign policy matter on the immediate agenda is more important than this sale, especially now," Bush said in a reference to the assassination three days earlier of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Bush, who addressed a National Press Club lunch, said the administration has "just got started" fighting for the sale. "I believe when the facts are out, we're going to carry the day," he said.

Describing Libya strongman Moammar Khadafy as an "egomaniac who would trigger World War III just to make headlines," Bush warned of constant dangers in the Mideast.

"If this sale falls through, danger lies ahead," he said, citing the danger of the Saudis "taking their needs and their trust elsewhere" and the danger of the "signal that will go out among the nations of the world" that Reagan does not have the cooperation of Congress.

At the White House, another Republican senator announced he would back the president and spokesman Larry Speakes said, "We think the tide is turning our way. We'll keep on. It looks good."

Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., emerged from a 15-minute meeting with Reagan to announce that he had decided the Saudi deal "serves our national interests."

Cochran was the fourth senator to make the move this week but he had been leaning toward support so his decision did not affect vote counts showing opponents with a majority in the Republican-controlled senate as well as in the Democratic-controlled House.

Opponents need majority votes in both houses of Congress to block the sale of five Airborne Warning and Control System planes, Sidewinder missiles and fueling equipment to enhance the F-15 fighter-interceptors that the Carter administration sold the Saudis.

Navy announces two sailors died from drug overdose

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two sailors died of a drug overdose and 19 others aboard the carrier Midway have been detained as suspects in the seizure of about $50,000 worth of marijuana.

The Navy said Friday it was one of the biggest drug hauls in Navy history.

The incidents were the latest examples of drug abuse in the Navy, which began a crackdown when its own survey nearly two years ago indicated 50 percent of 2,000 enlisted men sampled had used marijuana.

Six of the 14 men killed aboard the carrier Nimitz when a radar-jamming plane crashed on its flight deck in May were found to have used marijuana.

In one of the most serious incidents of its kind involving the Pacific 7th Fleet, two enlisted men died of "an apparent drug overdose" Sept. 23 and 24 while the Midway was in the Thai port of Pattaya, a Navy spokesman said.

He said he did not know whether the drug was heroin.

The Navy identified the two as Seamen Christopher Hatfield of Flora, Ind., and Steven Scott Weiner of Royal Palm Beach, Fla.

Navy investigators seized 17.6 pounds of marijuana aboard the same ship Sept. 14 while it was anchored at Subic Bay, the Philippines, and detained 19 enlisted men as suspects. Some of them may have been attached to the carrier's air wing, but none was a pilot.

The haul, one of the biggest in Navy history, had a street market value of at least $50,000, the spokesman said.

There was no immediate indication whether a Navy investigation had uncovered the source of marijuana supply to the Midway, but Navy officials are aware that drugs peddled "by criminal types" are accessible when a ship drops anchor in port.

The spokesman said he did not know what disciplinary action was taken against the enlisted men detained in a conspiracy to smuggle the marijuana aboard the Midway, a conventionally powered ship and one of the oldest of the 12 carriers in service.

Board recommends further cuts in air traffic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Transportation Safety Board Friday recommended a further reduction in air traffic across the United States because of the controllers' strike.

Investigators for the board found that stress and fatigue could pose a future problem for controllers. However, interviews with 175 supervisors and controllers at 41 control centers found no current evidence of excessive fatigue or stress.

Board Chairman James B. King said it was the "sense of the body" that three recommendations be forwarded to the FAA:

- A program be developed to monitor stress and fatigue among controllers.
- Controls be implemented at the national and facility levels to limit the total air traffic flow.
- Availability of a supervisor be required at all times.

Formal action was delayed pending a rewriting of the precise language on the three recommendations.

Only the recommendation to control overall traffic flow received an "urgent" priority designation, which in board terminology means action is needed because of an imminent risk of loss of life.

King and board investigators explained the primary problem was not air carriers or even general aviation traffic reduced recently by the FAA, but non-authorized, private traffic suddenly appearing on control tower screens.

King said in some cases, pilots are fraudulently using designations of other planes to gain clearance to airports and into the FAA-controlled system. In other cases, he said, pilots who begin a flight using visual flight procedures have to switch to instrument procedures under controllers' supervision because of weather conditions.

Panel to 'rock a few boats' to change education image

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal panel on excellence in the nation's schools was urged at its first meeting Friday to "rock a few boats" if it wants to reverse the deteriorating image of public education.

The 18-member National Commission on Excellence in Education, named by Education Secretary Terrel Bell in August, has an estimated $785,000 budget at a time when other federal education functions are being cut.

The panel met briefly with President Reagan at the White House Friday and was to continue its discussions through Saturday.

"I hope we rock a few boats," Minnesota Gov. Albert Quie told his fellow commission members at their first session. "If there's some shock quality, maybe it will help bring about some changes."

"This commission is being convened at a time when there is a great deal of concern and urgency about American education," said Bell. "Many are wondering what we might do to enhance the quality of learning in this country."

Bell established the commission to counter growing popular concern about quality in the nation's public schools. The panel's meeting came a week after the College Board reported scores on standard tests by college-bound seniors did not drop for the first time since 1968.

The secretary conceded "many commissions come and go in this town," but said the excellence panel's recommendations will make a difference if they are accepted by the educators who hear about them.

"This is the highest priority that we have in the Department of Education," Bell said. "This is an endeavor of enormous significance."

What's what

"I wanted to fulfill a lifelong dream before it was too late." Those aren't precisely the words of all fortyish husbands who abandon their families, but that's the general thought common to most, according to the skiptracers. Wise wives have been known to understand this, so support their husbands' secret ambitions, however unrealistic, providing said ambitions can be pursued without leaving home.

Q. Did George Washington have a hobby?
A. One, at least. He trained baby foxes to do tricks.

ABE'S PHOTO

Q. Was Abe Lincoln ever photographed with his wife?
A. No, but at least one photograph, a composite put together in a dark room, makes it appear so.

Q. What's "istronudia" mean?
A. Desire of a woman to expose herself to a physician on the pretext of being ill. This little quirk is rarely discussed, but doctors reportedly recognize it as quite common. If there's a counterpart in a man, how it's exhibited is not in the record at hand, nor is the word for it.

Estimators say there are 4.4 billion people on earth now. They say further these represent 9 percent of all the people who ever lived.

PALM TREE

Q. If the trunk of a coconut palm tree has no rings, how can you tell its age?
A. By a spiraling row of scars left from the leaves that fall away. One scar a month.

Q. Why do women change their minds more often than men do?
A. They don't, evidently. Studies at Northwestern suggest women are more indecisive. They take longer to make up their minds. But they're inclined to hold onto their opinions once they've formed them. Men, it's said, change their minds at least twice as often as women.

Arabian doctors about 2000 B.C. treated burns with poultices of oatmeal.

That 'possum at birth is only about as big as a kidney bean.

You can also buy a doormat now on which is printed: "Go Away."

The aide said Grassley is leaning against the sale and "rejected that overture on the part of the White House" and has not changed his position.

"No single foreign policy matter on the immediate agenda is more important than this sale, especially now," Bush said in a reference to the assassination three days earlier of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Bush, who addressed a National Press Club lunch, said the administration has "just got started" fighting for the sale. "I bet ... when the facts are out, we're going to carry the day," he said.

Describing Libya strongman Moammar Khadafy as an "egomaniac who would trigger World War III just to make headlines," Bush warned of constant dangers in the Mideast.

"If this sale falls through, danger lies ahead," he said, citing the danger of the Saudis "taking their needs and their trust elsewhere" and the danger of the "signal that will go out among the nations of the world" that Reagan does not have the cooperation of Congress.

At the White House, another Republican senator announced he would back the president and spokesman Larry Speakes said, "We think the tide is turning our way. We'll keep on. It looks good."

Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., emerged from a 15-minute meeting with Reagan to announce that he had decided the Saudi deal "serves our national interests."

Cochran was the fourth senator to make the move this week but he had been leaning toward support so his decision did not affect vote counts showing opponents with a majority in the Republican-controlled senate as well as in the Democratic-controlled House.

Opponents need majority votes in both houses of Congress to block the sale of five Airborne Warning and Control System planes, Sidewinder missiles and fueling equipment to enhance the F-15 fighter-interceptors that the Carter administration sold the Saudis.

Navy announces two sailors died from drug overdose

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two sailors died of a drug overdose and 19 others aboard the carrier Midway have been detained as suspects in the seizure of about $50,000 worth of marijuana.

The Navy said Friday it was one of the biggest drug hauls in Navy history.

The incidents were the latest examples of drug abuse in the Navy, which began a crackdown when its own survey nearly two years ago indicated 50 percent of 2,000 enlisted men sampled had used marijuana.

Six of the 14 men killed aboard the carrier Nimitz when a radar-jamming plane crashed on its flight deck in May were found to have used marijuana.

In one of the most serious incidents of its kind involving the Pacific 7th Fleet, two enlisted men died of "an apparent drug overdose" Sept. 23 and 24 while the Midway was in the Thai port of Pattaya, a Navy spokesman said.

He said he did not know whether the drug was heroin.

The Navy identified the two as Seamen Christopher Hatfield of Flora, Ind., and Steven Scott Weiner of Royal Palm Beach, Fla.

Navy investigators seized 17.6 pounds of marijuana aboard the same ship Sept. 14 while it was anchored at Subic Bay, the Philippines, and detained 19 enlisted men as suspects. Some of them may have been attached to the carrier's air wing, but none was a pilot.

The haul, one of the biggest in Navy history, had a street market value of at least $50,000, the spokesman said.

There was no immediate indication whether a Navy investigation had uncovered the source of marijuana supply to the Midway, but Navy officials are aware that drugs peddled "by criminal types" are accessible when a ship drops anchor in port.

The spokesman said he did not know what disciplinary action was taken against the enlisted men detained in a conspiracy to smuggle the marijuana aboard the Midway, a conventionally powered ship and one of the oldest of the 12 carriers in service.

Board recommends further cuts in air traffic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Transportation Safety Board Friday recommended a further reduction in air traffic across the United States because of the controllers' strike.

Investigators for the board found that stress and fatigue could pose a future problem for controllers. However, interviews with 175 supervisors and controllers at 41 control centers found no current evidence of excessive fatigue or stress.

Board Chairman James B. King said it was the "sense of the body" that three recommendations be forwarded to the FAA:

• A program be developed to monitor stress and fatigue among controllers.

• Controls be implemented at the national and facility levels to limit the total air traffic flow.

• Availability of a supervisor be required at all times.

Formal action was delayed pending a rewriting of the precise language on the three recommendations.

Only the recommendation to control overall traffic flow received an "urgent" priority designation, which in board terminology means action is needed because of an imminent risk of loss of life.

King and board investigators explained the primary problem was not air carriers or even general aviation traffic reduced recently by the FAA, but non-authorized private traffic suddenly appearing on control tower screens.

King said in some cases, pilots are fraudulently using designations of other planes to gain clearance to airports and into the FAA-controlled system. In other cases, he said, pilots who begin a flight using visual flight procedures have to switch to instrument procedures under controllers' supervision because of weather conditions.

Panel to 'rock a few boats' to change education image

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal panel on excellence in the nation's schools was urged at its first meeting Friday to "rock a few boats" if it wants to reverse the deteriorating image of public education.

The 18-member National Commission on Excellence in Education, named by Education Secretary Terrel Bell in August, has an estimated $783,000 budget at a time when other federal education functions are being cut.

The panel met briefly with President Reagan at the White House Friday and was to continue its discussions through Saturday.

"I hope we rock a few boats," Minnesota Gov. Albert Quie told his fellow commission members at their first session. "If there's some shock quality, maybe it will help bring about some changes."

"This commission is being convened at a time when there is a great deal of concern and urgency about American education," said Bell. "Many are wondering what we might do to enhance the quality of learning in this country."

Bell established the commission to counter growing popular concern about quality in the nation's public schools. The panel's meeting came a week after the College Board reported scores on standard tests by college-bound seniors did not drop for the first time since 1968.

The secretary conceded "many commissions come and go in this town," but said the excellence panel's recommendations will make a difference if they are accepted by the educators who hear about them.

"This is the highest priority that we have in the Department of Education," Bell said. "This is an endeavor of enormous significance."

What's what

"I wanted to fulfill a lifelong dream before it was too late." Those aren't precisely the words of all fortyish husbands who abandon their families, but that's the general thought common to most, according to the skiptracers. Wise wives have been known to understand this, so support their husbands' secret ambitions, however unrealistic, providing said ambitions can be pursued without leaving home.

Q. Did George Washington have a hobby?
A. One, at least. He trained baby foxes to do tricks.

ABE'S PHOTO

Q. Was Abe Lincoln ever photographed with his wife?
A. No, but at least one photograph, a composite put together in a dark room, makes it appear so.

Q. What's "latronudia" mean?
A. Desire of a woman to expose herself to a physician on the pretext of being ill. This little quirk is rarely discussed, but doctors reportedly recognize it as quite common. If there's a counterpart in a man, how it's exhibited is not in the record at-hand, nor is the word for it.

Estimators say there are 4.4 billion people on earth now. They say further these represent 9 percent of all the people who ever lived.

PALM TREE

Q. If the trunk of a coconut palm tree has no rings, how can you tell its age?
A. By a spiraling row of scars left from the leaves that fall away. One scar a month.

Q. Why do women change their minds more often than men do?
A. They don't, evidently. Studies at Northwestern suggest women are more indecisive. They take longer to make up their minds. But they're inclined to hold onto their opinions once they've formed them. Men, it's said, change their minds at least twice as often as women.

Arabian doctors about 2000 B.C. treated burns with poultices of oatmeal.

That 'possum at birth is only about as big as a kidney bean.

You can also buy a doormat now on which is printed: "Go Away."

Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Saturday, Oct. 10, the 283rd day of 1981 with 82 to follow.

The moon is moving toward its full phase.

The morning stars are Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra. American actress Helen Hayes was born Oct. 10, 1900.

On this date in history:

In 1845, the U.S. Naval Academy was formally opened at Fort Severn, Annapolis, Maryland.

In 1963, a dam burst in northern Italy, drowning an estimated 3,000 people.

In 1973, Vice-President Spiro Agnew resigned under an agreement with the Justice Department to plead no contest to income tax evasion charges. He was fined $10,000 dollars and put on three years' probation.

In 1980, more than 6,000 people were killed and 250,000 left homeless by a double earthquake in the Al Asnam area of Algeria.

Elvis' guitar a gift for B.J.

By United Press International

ELVIS' BROKEN STRING

TV and recording star Greg Evigan made such an impression on Earl Greenwood, cousin of and former public relations man for Elvis Presley, that Greenwood presented Evigan with one of Elvis' guitars. Evigan, who played B.J. in last year's "B.J. and the Bear," said he was overwhelmed by the gift of the guitar, which still has one broken string. Greenwood said Elvis threw the guitar to him when the string broke while Elvis was playing it in his home.

STARS AT WORK

Movie stars at work will be featured Sunday in "Hooray For Hollywood," an ABC-News documentary about the risks and rewards and the current status of the film industry. The show features visits to the sets of major films-and-interviews-with-stars-and-executives, including Harrison Ford, Steve Martin and Peter O'Toole.

CARTER BUGGED

Jimmy Carter says the Washington Post's gossip column published "scurrilous, irresponsible falsehoods" when it claimed the Carters bugged Ronald and Nancy Reagan and he plans to sue the paper. Former White House press secretary Jody Powell said both Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, "are very upset and concerned." "Although a final decision on the amount that will be asked has not been set," says Powell, "it is expected to be in seven figures."

ACADEMY TRIBUTE

Pare Lorentz, whose movie documentaries of the 1930s — "The Plow That Broke The Plains" and "The River" — are regarded as major milestones in American film-making, got special recognition in Hollywood this week. He was guest of honor at a salute by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Lorentz made the two movies in the depths of the Depression, when the U.S. government decided to produce a series of films on problems such as drought, floods, poverty and slums. Lorentz made "The Plow" on a total budget of $6,000. It and "The River" now are world-rated classics.

QUOTES OF THE DAY

Comedian Bill Cosby left Harrahs in Lake Tahoe following a bomb threat Wednesday night. Asked where he went, he said: "I just went over to Harvey's for awhile — they already had their bomb." . . . Comedian George Burns, arriving in Lincoln, Neb., for a hospital benefit show, asked a young TV reporter at the airport for a date. When he was turned down, he turned to Gov. Charles Thone and explained, "I can't ask women my own age for a date. There aren't any left." Burns, 85, attributed his longevity to "daily exercise, smoking lots of cigars — 15 to 20 a week — and dancing very close." . . . Swedish scientist Torsten N. Wiesel, when informed he was co-winner of the 1981 Nobel Prize in Medicine: "It's great. I'm also a little worried about prizes because there are other people in the field who are doing work that should be recognized."

Cinderella to play Carnegie Hall

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 19-year-old violinist who is used to playing for spare change on street corners now has a concert date at Carnegie Hall.

The Cinderella fairy tale involved a millionaire patron of the arts, a city-wide search and a $1,000 reward.

It all began two weeks ago when Stewart Fason, a vice-president for the Dean Witter Reynolds investment firm, stopped to listen to a young woman play the violin on a Manhattan street corner.

Fason, who founded the Chopin Society in February to help aspiring musicians, recalled how he stood there for an hour.

"I was just mesmerized," Fason said Friday. "I just kept dropping money into her case and all she kept saying was 'thank you, thank you.'"

"She asked me if there was something I wanted to hear and I picked a piece no living human under 30 could play well — Ravel's 'Tzigane.'"

"It was flawless," Fason said.

While listening to the woman play, Fason said he looked at his watch and dashed away after realizing he might miss a flight to his home in Palm Beach, Fla.

Fason, whose Chopin Society is sponsoring a program of six young pianists aged 13 to 28 at Carnegie Hall Oct. 18, said to himself on the way to the airport, "you idiot, this girl should make a cameo appearance at Carnegie Hall."

But he didn't know her name. So in the latest edition of the Village Voice he placed this ad: "$1,000 REWARD To person who finds teenage street violinist who played for Palm Beach man Sept. 24 in Midtown."

The New York Daily News ran a story about the search Thursday and while reading it on a subway platform Victoria Mohar, 18, realized the violinist was her friend Kerry McDermott.

A meeting was arranged at the Daily News Thursday afternoon and when Miss McDermott, a Great River, N.Y., native who now lives in Manhattan, walked in, Fason said, "That's the girl."

He asked her to perform at Carnegie Hall Oct. 18 and she quickly accepted.

With that, Fason handed Miss Mohar $1,000 in cash for locating Miss McDermott.

To make the tale more like Cinderella's own, unbeknownst to Fason and Miss McDermott was the fact that the violinist's 18-year-old sister Anne-Marie stayed at the millionaire's Palm Beach mansion Labor Day weekend along with the five other pianists who will be on the Carnegie Hall bill.

"My concerts are based on my fondest memories as a child when my parents used to read to me," Fason said. "The stories all began the same way — 'Once upon a time in a far away land. . . .'"

Nancy orders second set of china for White House

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Nancy Reagan has ordered another set of china from a New Jersey firm that has dubbed the dishes "Nancy" china.

The new 24-place set will be used for the first family's personal table upstairs at the White House.

It will be handmade by artisans at Edward Marshall Boehme Inc. of Trenton and Malverne, England, said Mrs. Boeme, owner of the porcelain studio and an international socialite who said Friday she has known Mrs. Reagan for 18 years.

The Reagan's were criticized for their recent purchase of a 220-piece, $209,000 set of china from Lenox China Inc. of nearby Lawrence Township, N.J.

Although the money for the Lenox set, to be used for state occasions, was donated by the Knapp Foundation, critics said the cost was exorbitant at a time when Reagan was urging budget cuts that would curtail services for the poor.

Regarding the second set, a spokesman for Mrs. Reagan said the first lady would "pay for china out of her own pocket" but declined to disclose the cost.

Although Boehme studios have crafted porcelain pieces for five presidents — they made the swans President Richard Nixon presented to Chairman Mao Tsetung on his historic trip to the People's Republic of China — they never before turned out a complete dinnerware set.

She said the firm had decided to make the set, which will be called "Nancy" china, because it was "an honor to serve the White House."

Mrs. Boehme said the set would be made of bone china made of 51 percent ground oxen bone, and handpainted by five "top artisans" with twelve different floral designs and a palette of 50 hues.

Included will be 12 different base plates, patterned with sprays of six American garden flowers and Mrs. Reagan's monogram, and dinner plates, 9-inch salad or dessert plate, bread-and-butter plates and demi-tasse and tea cups for each setting.

The base plates will feature one predominant flower — a rose named "First Lady Nancy," a poppy, a tulip, an iris, a peone, and an oriental poppy — surrounded by five flowers which grow at the same season.

"I knew she loved flowers," said Mrs. Boehm. She said Mrs. Reagan had helped design the plates.

"We discussed the positioning of the flowers, the coloration," Mrs. Boehme said. "The shade she wants for the border is very unique — a fern-green foliage color — and I was unsure of it. But it looks wonderful now that it's blending."

Copies of the plates will be available to the public at $160 a setting, Mrs. Boehme said.

"We wanted something affordable so people can buy a set every other month or so," Mrs. Boehme said.

Miss America forgives student

MANKATO, Minn. (UPI) — Miss America has forgiven a student who tossed food at her in a high school lunchroom and soiled her new $400 suede pants. He even got a song dedicated to him at Wednesday's Miss Mankato pageant.

The student, after some hard questioning from the Mankato East High School principal, admitted throwing tater tots at the newly crowned beauty queen, Elizabeth Ward of Arkansas.

Another student who tossed "a greasy apricot cobbler at Miss Ward has not been identified.

The food flew as principal John Sjostrom was giving Miss America a tour of the high school Tuesday. There was a gasp, and Miss America's new suede trousers, worn for the first time, were spattered. But she kept smiling, and other students were quick to apologize.

That night the president of the student government and another senior brought a bouquet of flowers to Miss America as she was having dinner and apologized for the student body.

Some students were in tears with embarrassment.

"How can I be upset when the other kids are so good to me?" she said.

Sjostrom apologized for the school. And before the Wednesday night pageant, Miss America received a letter of apology from the boy who admitted throwing the potatoes.

Teamster boss raps fuel surcharge changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Teamsters union President Roy Williams Friday assailed a decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission to revise fuel surcharge payments for independent truckers.

ICC Chairman Reese Taylor announced the long-awaited decision Thursday. It will take effect in 30 days.

Under the action, regulated carriers will be allowed to cover fuel-related costs in their normal freight rates. Independent truckers — who are not regulated and own their own trucks and haul freight for regulated carriers — will receive compensation from the carriers based on mileage traveled, a system that could mean payment as low as 14 cents a mile.

Under the current system, the diesel surcharge to independents had climbed to 18 percent of truck freight rates.

Williams said the 1.8 million-member union will file a petition with the ICC to make the owner-operators' costs a part of the rate base.

He said the current program meant the difference between economic survival and bankruptcy for thousands of owner-operators and said the change "will spell disaster for many."

He said owner-operators are least able to face the burden of what he called "cutthroat rate cutting throughout the trucking industry."

"Over 100,000 owner-operators are providing essential transportation service on which every one of us depends," said Williams in a statement. "They bear most of the cost burden of providing that service."

He said while some carriers can maintain adequate revenues by cutting rates to increase their volume, owner-operators are faced with the prospect of having to overload their vehicles or disregard hours-of-service regulations and highway safety to avoid financial ruin.

Diablo plant to open Jan. 1 after safety error remedied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Earthquake safety doubts spawned by a design error at Diablo Canyon I can be remedied in three weeks, permitting the new plant to be activated by Jan. 1, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission staff was told Friday.

"The error is an isolated and unusual case," Barton W. Shackelford, president of Pacific Gas & Electric, told a special NRC technical briefing on the recently discovered design problem.

"It affects only a limited area of the plant," said Shackelford. "The plant can be brought to design criteria by modification of a relatively few pipe hangers and supports, which has already started and should be completed in a month.

"More importantly," the utility chief said, "Even if the design discrepancy had not been discovered, the plant's pipe system, and thus the plant, would not have been endangered even with a 7.5 magnitude earthquake on the Hosgri Fault."

The Avila Beach, Calif., reactor has been the focus of a fierce licensing battle for years, with nuclear foes arguing that its location near one of California's active earthquake faults makes it a menace to the region.

Coming about a week after the plant's conditional licensing on Sept. 21, discovery of the design glitch and its earthquake implications served to rekindle the controversy.

Corporate engineers and technical experts told the staff modifications would be needed on about 100 pipe supports in the area between the plant's interior pressure vessel and its containment building walls to make sure the reactor meets NRC requirements for earthquake resistance.

The staff seemed particularly interested in whether the problem — which resulted from the use of the wrong diagram in the design of the pipe bracings — could be only the tip of the iceberg.

Judge sets Hinckley trial date for Nov. 30

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge Friday set a Nov. 30 trial date for John W. Hinckley Jr., the man accused of trying to kill President Reagan and wounding three others.

The brief order by U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker came at the same time the government filed motions in federal court opposing requests by Hinckley's lawyers to suppress statements he made to psychiatrists following his arrest.

Hinckley was arrested March 30 moments after Reagan, White House Press Secretary James Brady and two law enforcement officials were shot outside a Washington hotel.

He underwent three months of psychiatric examinations at the federal correctional center at Butner, N.C. His lawyers are seeking to suppress statements he made to psychiatrists during those examinations.

Prosecutors, however, opposed those motions in legal papers filed Friday. They said a federal judge had the authority to order Hinckley to submit to a complete psychiatric examination at Butner and an April 1 exam to determine his competency.

Parker has scheduled a hearing on Oct. 19 on the motions, and a second hearing Oct. 26 on defense arguments seeking to suppress statements Hinckley made to law enforcement officials after his arrest and a request to have two juries consider the case.

Last week, lawyers for the 26-year-old Hinckley offered to acknowledge that he shot President Reagan, but notified prosecutors they intended to raise an insanity defense in his case.

At the same time, they requested a two-part proceeding with one jury considering Hinckley's guilt or innocence and a second panel to weigh his state of mind at the time of the shooting.

Defense lawyers said if the same jurors are exposed to the evidence of the case as the panel that decides the question of Hinckley's mental state at the time of the shooting, "the prejudice to Mr. Hinckley will be massive."

Bailey says cash should be outlawed

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey said Friday he favored "radical surgery" on the criminal justice system, and specifically urged making it illegal to receive, possess or spend more than $500 in cash.

"Legitimate citizens do not need to do business in cash," the Boston attorney told a news conference at the annual meeting of the California State Bar, where he appeared as keynote speaker.

"We must refuse green to the criminals . . . we should not tolerate suspects to walk around with suitcases full of $1,000 bills.

"It should be a crime to receive, possess or spend without license cash amounts in excess of $500. The federal government should be the licensing agency for those showing good reason to transact in cash," he said.

Bailey said criminals could not operate without large sums of cash: "Abscam would not have gone down if they were dealing with Amex (American Express) cards."

Addressing the lack of compensation for crime victims, Bailey suggested: "Let the captive work force generate funds for that, working in prison. The objections of labor unions would have to be overcome. They generally don't favor prisoners doing anything useful. The money generated could also be used to help support the families of prisoners, who are normally on our public payroll, receiving welfare."

Bailey said the press, and consequently the public, makes the mistake of presuming a relation between criminal justice and the onset of crime.

"Blaming rampant crime in the streets on judges and lawyers is simply talking to the wrong people. As long as criminals feel that for enough money they can hire a lawyer like Merlin the Magician, they are not going to be deterred."

King Juan Carlos to visit U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — King Juan Carlos of Spain will arrive in Washington Monday for a two-day a state visit that will include private talks with President Reagan and top Cabinet members, administration sources said Friday.

A senior administration official said "no major outstanding bilateral issues" were to be discussed, but the talks would include Spain's planned entry into NATO and the status of American military bases in Spain.

The king originally was scheduled to visit the United States early this year but cancelled the trip after Civil Guards invaded the Spanish parliament in an attempted military coup.

Taiwan officials consider invitation from Peking 'a joke'

PEKING (UPI) — Saying "Let bygones be bygones" Chinese Communist Party Chairman Hu Yaobang Friday invited the president of Nationalist China to visit his ancestral homeland even if he refuses to discuss Peking's drive to unify Taiwan with the mainland.

In Taiwan, where authorities prepared for a massive military parade Saturday marking the island's 70th anniversary, the offer was — as expected — rejected as "another joke."

"Let bygones be bygones," Hu told a mass rally in Peking as he issued the open invitation to Nationalist President Chiang Ching-kuo and other Taiwanese leaders "to visit the mainland and their natal places."

Referring to a reunification plan proposed by Peking 10 days ago, Hu said, "there is nothing in our present proposal that is unfair or should cause anxiety to the Taiwan side.

"It would be good if they wanted to talk with us, but they are also warmly welcome if they do not want to talk with us for the time being," he said.

Hu also rejected any possibility of American or other third country mediation in the Taiwan issue.

"The question of Taiwan is entirely China's internal affair. It should be settled by the leaders and people on both sides of the (Taiwan) strait," he said.

Taiwan has flatly refused all mainland proposals to discuss reunification and Saturday's massive military parade was meant to underscore Chiang's vow to "never negotiate" with Peking. The island plans to display 140,000 troops and its latest weaponry in the National Day parade.

Taiwanese government spokesman James Soong dimissed Hu's invitation as "another joke," but warned of an ulterior motive.

"We have to be on the alert not to be taken by surprise as the series of communist Chinese offer of peace talks may prelude military action," he asserted.

"Their motive is apparently not peace or reunification which they know cannot be achieved so long as the China mainland is under communist rule," Soong said.

Sources said tightened security arrangements were being taken to protect Chiang and foreign dignitaries attending the parade.

The 70-minute show of force will feature sophiticated ground-to-ground and ship-to- ship missiles and heavy artillery such as 155-mm self-propelled guns. The equipment is manufactured in Taiwan with technical aid from the United States, Israel and other nations.

Khamenei new Iranian president

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iran's supreme leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini Friday officially appointed Seyyed Ali Khamenei, head of the ruling Islamic Republican Party, as the country's new president.

The move consolidating the hold of the fundamentalist clergy on the reins of power.

A spokesman in Khomeini's Tehran office told UPI the ayatollah gave Khamenei his blessing at an official ceremony attended by leading religious figures.

Khamenei won 95 percent of the 16.8 million votes cast in the presidential elections a week ago. Once sworn in by the clergy-dominated parliament, he will become Iran's third president since the Islamic revolution overthrew late Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi in Feb. 1979.

As a close aide to Khomeini and head of the ruling party, Khamenei has a unified power base. It was conflict with the IRP that led to the ouster of socialist ex-President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr.

Khamenei succeeds the late President Mohammad Ali Rajai who was killed with Prime Minister Mohammed Javad Bahonar in a bomb blast in August. An infiltrator from the outlawed leftist Mojahideen Khalq organization allegedly planted the bomb in the floor below prime minister's office.

Khamenei is assuming office in the midst of a parliamentary controversy over a speech by former Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan who provoked angry denunciations from deputies by saying dissidents were not necessarily foreign agents.

The parliament is considering a bill to establish disciplinary procedures that could deprive "deputies who step out of line like Bazargan" of their seats, an aide to parliamentary speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani said Thursday.

Observers expected Khamenei to push ahead with the purge of moderate and liberal members of parliament and to further clamp down on armed and unarmed dissenters in Iran.

In a speech broadcast by official Tehran radio on Islam's holiest Feast of Al Adha, Khomeini warned anti-government insurgents that if the Islamic republic were to fall, the next rulers of Iran will destroy all opponents. The aging ayatollah also urged youthful opponents to abandon their "deceptive" leaders.

PLO official killed in bomb blast

ROME, Italy (UPI) — The information chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization was killed Friday by a bomb exploded under his bed in one of Rome's most luxurious hotels.

Police said it was a highly professional assassination. Majed Abu Sharar, chief of the PLO's public relations department, died when the bomb went off shortly before 1 a.m. (6 p.m. MDT Thursday) in his room on the fourth floor of the Flora hotel on Rome's tourist-famed Via Veneto.

A PLO spokesman blmaed Israel for the attack, calling Abu Sharar a victim of the "homicidal madness of Israeli terrorists."

However, a hard-line Palestinian group in Beirut claimed responsibility for the assassination, saying it killed Abu Sharar because he had "diverged" from the radical line and had become too moderate.

The bomb, placed beneath his bed, started a fire that burned Abu Sharar's corpse beyond recognition and forced scores of tourists and other hotel guests to flee their rooms in nightclothes.

Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze.

Police at first theorized Abu Sharar may have been preparing the bomb for a terrorist attack and that it had exploded prematurely. A bomb blast on Thursday damaged an Israeli tourist office only two blocks from the Flora hotel.

However, fire brigade experts said later they found evidence the bomb was rigged under Abu Sharar's bed.

Abu Sharar was registered at the hotel as Abbas Zithouni, 47, an Algerian living in Beirut.

A spokesman for the PLO's Rome office conceded Zithouni was really Abu Sharar, the PLO's top information official and a member of the central committee of Al Fatah, the guerrilla group headed by Yasser Arafat.

Shari Lewis and Johnny Ray recall careers; both appearing in Jackpot

Shari Lewis with one of her newer puppets, Captain, a violin-playing kangaroo

JACKPOT, Nev. — The woman who can make a lamb talk and the man who could make a cloud cry are performing in Jackpot this weekend.

Shari Lewis, the "mother" of Lamb Chop and the kiddie show queen, has pressed her puppets into service for a comedy-and-song nightclub act.

A ventriloquist extraordinaire — not a quiver escapes those smiling lips — she remains one of the few stars who can sing a duet with herself.

Co-star Johnnie Ray soared to stardom 30 years ago when "Cry" and "The Little White Cloud that Cried" sold two million copies the year after they were released.

His once-famous weepy antics and convulsive gestures have been toned down, but the 54-year-old performer continues to sing love songs with painful emotion.

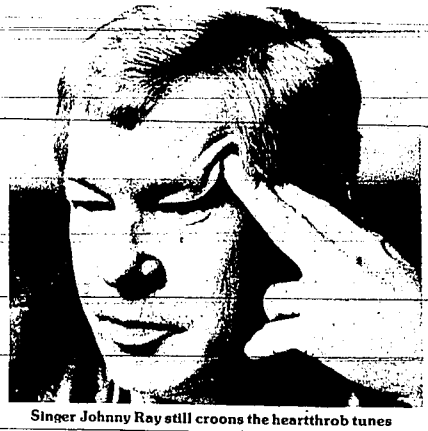
Both stars will be performing at Cactus Pete's casino tonight and Sunday at 8 and 11 p.m.

During Friday's rehearsal, Lewis nursed a sudden cold with tea and cough drops. No honey in the tea, please; she can't stand the stuff, she says in her lilting voice. But "honey" is a word she often uses when she talks to her band or stagehands about performance details.

Off-stage, Lewis speaks as sweetly as her on-stage persona — although her low-cut jumpsuit and calm manner reveal how much the buoyant redhead of early morning TV has matured.

Still a strawberry blonde, with a perky nose and eyes framed with thick butterfly lashes, Shari, 47, says Lamp Chop hasn't grown up, although the spunky sheep now tells a political joke or two.

"Lamp Chop is very much a part of me," Lewis says. "The things she relates to are different. In one act, she tries to find out where babies come from. In another, she tries to get a computer date. In another, she teaches me how to suck my thumb."



Singer Johnny Ray still croons the heartthrob tunes

Shari and her lisping lamb first gained fame on a New York television show in the late 1950s. Her network show, featuring standbys such as Hush Puppy, Charlie Horse and Wing Ding, ran from 1960 until 1963.

New York-born Shari Hurwitz began performing at age 4 with a magic act. She learned ventriloquism at 11. She decided on a career as an actress-dancer, but broke her leg in a ballet performance trying to do an arabesque "higher than anyone else."

She calls the break a blessing. "While I could get into the chorus line, I couldn't get out of it. I'm a soloist, and I'm not a chorus-line person."

Armed with her voice and a homemade puppet, she won an Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts program and began her professional ventriloquist career.

Her writing credits include 21 books and a Star Trek episode, which she wrote with her husband, Jeremy Tarcher, a book publisher.

The winner of various Emmy awards, Lewis will have a Christmas special this year, and a new cable network series is planned.

She continues to appear on television and at county fairs and Disney parks. She also practices her conducting skills two hours a day — her ventriloquism needs no work.

Her adult-geared nightclub act features a violin-playing kangaroo, named Captain Person, and Grizzle, an oversized bear.

Rogerson will get a modern water system

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

ROGERSON — In about three months, Rogerson residents should have a new water system, complete with fire hydrants.

It will be a stark change from the outdated, spring-fed system — developed by a local farmer — that has been hooked into repeatedly by most Rogerson households.

Friday, the Twin Falls County Commissioners awarded separate contracts for the three-part, $159,508 project. The bids were opened Tuesday.

"The project is sponsored by Twin Falls County, in that they were the original applicants to the Department of Housing and Urban Development," explained Bill Block of J-U-B Engineers, the Twin Falls firm heading the project.

"Rogerson is not an incorporated municipality, and their water district governing the water system had not been formed at the time of the application," Block said.

Despite the county's involvement, Rogerson's water system will be built entirely with federal money, in the form of a HUD grant under the community development block-grant program. The Idaho Department of Health and Welfare already has approved the well water that will be used in the system, Block said.

The project will consist of an 80,000 gallon storage reservoir, a pumping station and a complete distribution system.

The commissioners awarded construction of the ground-level steel reservoir to PMF Inc. of Twin Falls. The bid was $37,295.

Intermountain Irrigation of Rupert won the contracts for both the distribution system, costing $42,621, and the three-pump booster station, costing $79,592.

The three pumps will operate in sequence, depending on the amount of demand, Block said. Most of the delivery system will consist of six-inch lines to provide adequate pressure for both fire hydrants and household outlets.

"Construction will probably begin next week," Block said. "All three contracts are 90-day agreements, and the work should be done simultaneously. However, there are inclement weather clauses in case the companies can't work on some days."

Bad weather is not expected to be a major factor, however, because the work has been scheduled to accommodate winter, Block said. For example, the heated pump shed will be completed immediately, so workers won't be hampered by freezing temperatures once the pump equipment arrives.

The central well already has been drilled and is not included in the project costs.

"The project consists of a complete domestic and fire-protection water system," Block said. "It will be a tremendous improvement over what the people in Rogerson have had."

The commissioners agreed to divide the project into three separate bids to allow smaller, specialized contractors to compete for the work. Most local companies don't have the expertise needed for all phases of a water system, Block said.

"While it is more work to bid this way, it usually means the final project cost can be reduced significantly through more competitive bidding," he said.

Expert says youths unprepared for future

Students need courses in technology?

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Technological literacy should be added to the basic skills required of high school and community college graduates, says an expert in vocational education.

Speaking in Twin Falls at a seminar on occupational education, Michael Dyrenfurth said most voters and many government officials are not qualified to make the technological choices that soon will be forced on them.

Dyrenfurth, an associate professor at the University of Missouri-Columbia, serves as vice president for industrial arts of the American Vocational Association.

"We need to get politicians and educators together and say technological literacy is a basic skill to live in today's life," he told the assembled group of vocational school and community college administrators.

Quoting from a report published recently by the Club of Rome, a group formed to identify and recommend solutions for future world problems, Dyrenfurth said "technological illiteracy" is a dilemma facing many countries.

His own field of industrial arts suffers from an image among educators of "a shop somewhere in the basement where students . . . make bowling pin lamps," according to Dyrenfurth. In reality, few schools are preparing students adequately for a world of home minicomputers, convection ovens and computer, fuel-injected automobile engines, he said.

He suggested the creation of new course sequences and laboratories to give all students a basic understanding of materials and processes; the communication of ideas and concepts, and the fundamentals of energy and power use.

Existing programs don't prepare a student to relate his area of expertise to a larger goal, or to understand the work of others around him, Dyrenfurth said.

The three-day seminar, sponsored by the Council for Occupation Education, concluded Friday at the College of Southern Idaho.

Ma Bell pulls plug on local operators

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — All but a handful of Twin Falls' telephone operators were disconnected Friday.

In a move first announced 2 ½ years ago, Mountain Bell will eliminate all Twin Falls operators. Calls to the operator will go automatically to operators in Salt Lake City, Boise or Grand Junction, Colo., said Kenneth Mann, Mountain Bell's director of customer service in Twin Falls.

For the last 1 ½ years a similar system has been used for all directory assistance calls, he said. All such calls in Idaho are answered at a facility in Pocatello.

At one time, about 100 operators attended to the switchboards on the second floor of the telephone company building at 115 Third Ave. E. The final 13 operators in Twin Falls will work until the end of next week.

Consolidating services in this manner allows the Mountain Bell to operate more efficiently and hold costs down, Mann said.

"I want to make it clear the phone company is not leaving Twin Falls," Mann said. About 100 engineers, service people, repairmen and other phone company employees will still work in Twin Falls. The phone center store will remain open. "I'll still be here," Mann said.

To cushion the impact from eliminating more than 100 jobs, Mountain Bell began helping the operators find new jobs as soon as the plan to eliminate the positions in Twin Falls was announced.

Linda Taylor, acting group manager of operator services, is in charge of what remains of the staff of operators. In a little more than a week, she will begin work in the operator services division for Mountain Bell in Boise.

She is the last of the operators to be transferred. Before her, many others have accepted positions in Boise or Salt Lake City, Mann said. Many more have taken other jobs with the phone company in Twin Falls.

Any gaps in the operator ranks due to transfers were filled with temporary operators, people who were told when they were hired that the job was scheduled for elimination.

More than 40 operators were still working this week. About 30, all of whom had been hired as temporary operators, worked their last day Friday. The 13 that will continue working until the end chose to relire from the phone company, Mann said.

New Wendell fire chief sworn in by City Council

WENDELL — Fire Marshal Keith Hosack was sworn in Thursday evening as the new city fire chief.

Hosack replaces George Wahler, who submitted his resignation Oct. 1.

According to Mayor Otto Lemke, Wahler's resignation was expected. "He had other things to do, and he wanted more time," Lemke said. "He's still going to do some of the work, like paperwork."

Wahler was unavailable for comment.

Hosack, who also has served as city building inspector, was appointed by the mayor at the recommendation of Wahler. City Council unanimously approved the appointment.

Other new Fire Department appointments include: Dale "Bud" Bitterli, assistant fire chief; Gail Carpenter, first captain; Jim Benson, second captain; and Brian Galbraith, third captain.

In other city business, bids for a computer were opened and studied. A final decision on the selection of the computer is expected at the next meeting.

Manslaughter charge mulled following hitchhiker's death

TWIN FALLS — The truck driver involved in a fatal accident southwest of Twin Falls on Wednesday faces charges of driving while under the influence of alcohol — and possibly manslaughter.

The driver, Kevin L. Bennett, 29, Route 6, Blackfoot, lost control of his rig while rounding a curve connecting U.S. 93 with Idaho 74, six miles from Twin Falls. The trailer rolled over on its side, while the cab landed on its roof.

Raymond L. Tyndall of Clinton, N.C., who had hitched a ride with Bennett outside Wells, Nev., was killed in the accident. Bennett was treated and released at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital for minor injuries.

According to Idaho State Trooper Dwight Morimoto, the trucker has been cited for driving while intoxicated. And if tests reveal his blood alcohol level was above .08 at the time of the accident, he will be charged with voluntary manslaughter.

Harry DeHaan, the county prosecutor, confirmed that when the results of the blood tests are available, probably the middle of next week, a decision on the charges will be made.

"We are awaiting the results of the tests," he said. "This is a very serious charge, and we want to be sure of our grounds."

Bennett was hauling a load of beer for Edwards Brothers Inc., 1875 N. Holmes Ave., Idaho Falls.

Of current children's TV programs, she has nothing good to say.

"Children's TV is an insult to the future. It is mindless. It is all about nothing," she says.

Nor does Lewis like the direction children's education is taking. "Sticking to the three R's is an antiquated notion. It ignores the fact the brain is stimulated by the arts. An unstimulated brain is an uncreative brain, and an uncreative brain can not learn."

She would prefer to see children's entertainment geared for the entire family.

Lamp Chop may have accompanied Lewis on her honeymoon, but Lewis suffers no identity crisis as did the ventriloquist in the movie "Magic."

— a film, incidently, that she enjoyed. "Lamp Chop is the gentle part of me," she explains.

Yet her sugar-coated children's host image is not a put-on, she says. "I think I'm very well integrated at home," she says. "I'm a very even-tempered person. I've always found bad behavior counterproductive."

Still, during rehearsal, when Shari questioned conductor Stormy Sacks about a spotlight adjustment, Captain Person suddenly breaks in: "Why ask him; he didn't get it right the first time."

"Did he do that?" Shari said demurely, when asked about the remark, her thick black lashes opened wide.

International star Johnnie Ray contends he is not a singer and has never claimed to be a singer. Rather, "I'm a performer. I'm communicating between the audience and me," he says.

He aims for the one-to-one effect, the intricacy of brooding lyrics and tunes sung with a catch in the throat.

In his Jackpot performance, Ray mixes favorite songs of the '50s, such as "Walking My Baby Back Home" and "Whiskey and Gin" with more modern numbers.

Even in rehearsal, clad in a Hawaiian shirt, cowboy hat and tennis shoes, Ray often lets go with his powerful voice — husky, perhaps, even gritty, but laden with suppressed sorrow.

Part of Ray's '50s mystique came from the hearing aid he wears. From age 14, he has been totally deaf in one ear. The aid gives him 30-percent hearing in the other. He says it hasn't influenced his singing: "It's part of you and you accept it."

Born in Dallas, Ore., and raised on gospel music, Ray originally wanted to be an actor. In the meantime, he supported himself by singing. While working at Detroit's Flame Club, he was influenced greatly by Billie Holiday and the style of other black performers. Eventually, he was discovered by a Columbia talent scout.

His singing led him back to acting, where he co-starred with Ethel Merman and Marilyn Monroe in the film "There's No Business Like Show Business."

Although described as having a roller-coaster career, Ray says that's a misconception because he has been popular consistently outside the United States.

Sturgeon protection may halt Dike Dam

BOISE (UPI) — A [illegible] month for incorporation into Idaho's water plan might halt Idaho Power Co.'s plans to build Dike Dam on the Snake River east of Bliss.

Jim Wrigley, planning chief for the Water Resources Department, told citizens attending an informational meeting in Boise that the dam wouldn't be acceptable under one of seven policies proposed for the water plan.

The Idaho Water Board has proposed seven policies for addition to the plan, which governs state actions, legislation and regulations concerning the use of Idaho's water resources.

The informational meeting in Boise Thursday was one of several being held across the state. Testimony and comment on the proposals will be taken at public hearings later this month.

One of the proposed policies would protect Idaho's small population of white sturgeon by outlining the state's intention to preserve the free-flowing water required for the fish to live.

Wrigley said the Idaho Fish and Game Commission determined that the last sizable population of the sturgeon in the Snake River, upriver from Hells Canyon, lives and breeds at the Dike site.

The Dike Dam, as proposed by Idaho Power, would be 120 feet high and have a generating capacity of 68 megawatts. The dam would flood the river for about two miles upstream.

Wrigley said that if the Idaho Water Board and the Legislature adopt the policy, construction of Dike Dam would "very likely" be contrary to state policy because it would destroy the fish habitat.

Tank's fumes kill Paul man

MALTA — A Paul man was killed while working in a gasoline storage tank Friday morning.

According to Cassia County Coroner C.B. Young, Tod Halbert, 26, of 23 N., 1 W., Paul, was lowered into a storage tank at Full Circle Inc., 1234 Hansen Ave., by other workmen in an attempt to repair a stuck float. Halbert was overcome by the fumes from two to three inches of gasoline that remained in the tank, Young said, and he collapsed.

The rope was not tied to Halbert, and the other workmen could not pull him from the tank, according to the coroner.

Halbert was pronounced dead at the scene. Young said the cause of death was suffocation from gasoline fumes.

A full obituary on Halbert will be in Sunday's newspaper.

Man arrested for robbery

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man, who is awaiting sentencing on charges of first- and second-degree burglary, has been arrested and charged with robbery.

Kyle Wynia, 18, is being held in the Twin Falls County Jail in lieu of a $10,000 bond.

Wynia was arraigned Thursday in 5th District Magistrate Court on a charge of strong armed robbery.

According to the charges filed against Wynia by Twin Falls police, the defendant was arrested after his fingerprints were taken from the scene of a robbery that occurred Monday.

Mike Harrison of 864 Quincy St., Twin Falls, reported that he found the suspect in his kitchen. The man threatened to kill him unless he turned over his money, Harrison told police.

Harrison reported the suspect then grabbed him and threw him out of his wheelchair before leaving the residence.

Wynia pleaded guilty Sept. 21 to burglary charges in 5th District Court. He had been released on a $5,000 bond, pending sentencing.

Standby 'defender' named

TWIN FALLS — The county commissioners selected Randy J. Stoker on Wednesday to represent indigent clients in cases where the public defender has a conflict of interest.

Stoker won the contract over two other lawyers. The three bids were submitted earlier this week.

Stoker's role will be to represent clients when a conflict of interest prevents the public defender's office from doing so. Such cases arise when two suspects are charged in connection with the same crime.

Mike Walz, the county public defender, will have the authority to determine when a conflict prohibits his office from representing a client.

Under a new policy established by the commissioners, Stoker will be paid a monthly salary rather than an hourly fee.

The change is designed to save the county money.

Last year, the county spent slightly more than $12,000 on conflict cases. A good share of that amount resulted from multiple conflict cases. In those cases, a conflict required the county to hire a third defense lawyer who was not bound by a maximum county appropriation.

Under the new system, Stoker will be responsible for retaining legal representation for clients involved in a multiple conflict.

"We want to pin it down to the fee," said commission Chairman Ann Cover. "We want to put the risk on the lawyer rather than us."

Stoker submitted the lowest eligible bid for the contract at $11,400. The Jerome law firm of Hart, Burdick and Healzer submitted a bid of $11,500.

Another bid, submitted by Robert W. Galley, who has handled conflict cases for the county since January, was $10,000. But the commissioners disqualified the bid because it came in past the deadline.

QUESTION . . .

I understand the Veterans Administration has made some changes in funeral benefits. Can you tell me what those may be?

ANSWER . . .

The $300 funeral allowance paid until now to honorably discharged war veterans will, hereafter, be paid only to certain veterans. To qualify a veteran, otherwise eligible, will receive this death benefit if:

1. He was receiving or was entitled to receive VA Compensation or Pension; or
2. He died in a VA medical facility.

No change has been made in the $150 burial allowance nor the $59 grave marker allowance. We will continue to apply for those benefits.

Symposium will study shroud

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UPI) — Scientists Friday began a three-day symposium where they will pore over findings from an exhaustive study of the mysterious Shroud of Turin, thought by some to be the burial cloth of Jesus Christ.

Many of the scientists' findings have trickled out to the public since the 1978 examination of the 14-foot-by-4-foot cloth in Turin, Italy.

Despite a thorough investigation using advanced scientific equipment, the group of 45 scientists has been unable to disprove or prove conclusively that the cloth was wrapped around Christ when he was placed in a tomb after the crucifixion.

However, the scientists have concluded a crucified body had lain on the shroud, the bloodstains were real blood and the image was caused by intrinsic changes in the fibers themselves.

The scientists said the cloth was not been produced by any normal or abnormal biochemistry. They do not believe it is a forgery.

The image on the shroud "has unique—and—remarkable—three-dimensional information encoded in it, but the mechanism of the image formation remains a mystery," said Dr. Thomas D'Muhala, a radiological engineer and one of the original shroud investigators.

D'Muhala said the study was conducted solely to determine the physical makeup and chemistry of the cloth and image.

The religious significance of the findings would be left to the church, he said. The shroud, which is only shown to the public a few times each century, never leaves Italy.

Tests on the shroud, which first surfaced in the 14th Century in France, included X-rays, fluorescence, surface sampling photographic computer anaylsis and examination of pollen and blood in the shroud.

However, Catholic church officials refused to allow a Carbon 14 isotope test, the best way of dating organic material, because it would require destroying a piece of the cloth.

Brotherhood getting bolder

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat admitted a few weeks before his assassination he had erred in showing leniency toward Moslem fundamentalists. In retrospect, he practically signed his death warrant 10 years ago.

A fanatic Moslem officer and three other assailants gunned him down during a military parade Tuesday in apparent revenge for his crackdown last month on religious extremism, including the arrest of nearly 1,600 people.

The problem now faced by President-designate Hosni Mubarak is that the Moslem fundamentalist defiance continues, despite the crackdown, a state of emergency declared following Sadat's death, a ban on religious demonstrations of any kind and other stringent security measures.

Extremists in the city of Asyut, about 300 miles south of Cairo, deliberately shunned mosques and tried to say their Id Al-Adha (feast of sacrifice) prayers Thursday on sidewalks.

They turned down police requests to enter mosques and in an ensuing gunbattle, several people were reported killed.

Moslem fundamentalism in Egypt began in the mid-forties with the establishment of the Moslem Brotherhood organization, but it has never been as bold as in the last few years. The Moslem revolution in Iran and Islamic upsurges elsewhere encouraged the new militancy.

In the forties, the Brotherhood publicly preached strict adherence to Koranic law such as chopping the right hand of a thief. But secretly it entertained visions of a theocratic state under its own leadership.

The fundamentalist philosophy is based on a saying by the prophet Mohammed that "Islam is religion and the world." The extremists interpret this to mean that they should be at the helm to see to it that Islamic teachings govern everything in life, both spiritual and temporal.

The Brotherhood went about the realization of its dream cautiously but resorted to terror first in 1948 when it engineered the assassination of Prime Minister Mahmoud Fahmi El-Nokrashy and again in 1954 when one of its members attempted to kill then President Gamal Abdel-Nasser for his refusal to bring the organization into the government.

Nasser banned the Brotherhood, arrested hundreds of members, had six of its leaders executed and over the next 11 years almost completely broke its back.

When Sadat took over following Nasser's death in 1970, he embarked on a domestic liberalization program that included pardoning and rehabilitating all imprisoned Brotherhood members.

This was the fatal mistake he admitted he made in a speech last month.

"I erred in letting those people out (of jail). I should have kept them there."

Sadat's error lay in permitting the liberated remnants of the Brotherhood to operate as an organization, although the ban on it was never lifted. He even allowed it to publish a monthly magazine.

McClure likes bill allowing drilling in wilderness areas

BOISE (UPI) — Senate Energy Committee Chairman James McClure has given his backing to a proposal to open the nation's wilderness areas to oil and natural gas exploration and drilling.

McClure, R-Idaho, says he favors a plan by U.S. Interior Secretary James Watt to consider whether to allow energy exploration in wilderness areas.

"If we can, in acceptable ways — with minimal impact on wilderness or other values — explore for and develop oil resources in this country, it's near criminal not to," McClure said.

McClure said drilling for oil in wilderness areas was better than sending Americans to fight a war for oil in the Middle East.

McClure also said that many areas being studied by the by the Bureau of Land Management for possible wilderness designation (1.6 million acres in Idaho) had been wrongly classified as wilderness.

In the past, the BLM followed a definition of a road as one maintained annually with BLM equipment, he said. But he said he had discussed with Watt the possibility of changing the definition to include roads created and kept open by the passage of vehicles.

Also, McClure said he still planned to hold congressional hearings on the expansion of southern Idaho's Snake River Birds of Prey Area to more than 400,000 acres.

The senator said he originally planned to hear the issue this year, but he said the hearings probably would not be scheduled until next year due to the heavy agenda in Congress this fall.

McClure wants to review the expansion of the area, which occurred under an executive order by Carter administration Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, a former Idaho governor. Andrus expanded the bird refuge in one of his last official acts in Washington, saying the area must be protected from development.

Pro-development elements in Idaho would rather drill for oil and gas and expand farming in the area than give the rare raptors — such as peregrin falcons and hawks — so much protected area.

Farmer fights power rates

BOISE (UPI) — A Nampa-area farmer intends to launch a drive to overturn a new electricity rate schedule he contends will drive some Idaho irrigators out of business.

The shift from declining-block rates to flat rates, ordered by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission last month in a conservation measure, has been criticized by Pete Ellopulos, who farms in the Dry Lake area 12 miles south of Nampa.

Ellopulos said he wanted to form a group to battle the rates, and he said the effort would include political contributions aimed at changing the membership of the PUC. The party in control of the governor's office gets two of the three PUC seats, so Ellopulos would like to see Democratic Gov. John Evans replaced by a Republican.

"We spend thousands of dollars every year fighting these rate increases," Ellopulos said. "Now we're going to put some money toward electing a governor."

Under the declining-block rate system, irrigators were charged at a lower rate the more electricity they used. But the amount of consumption under the new schedule will have no effect on the rate of charges by Idaho Power Co., which also protested imposition of the rate schedule.

Ellopulos' complaints have sparked the interest of GOP gubernatorial candidates Ralph Olmstead and Phil Batt.

Olmstead has accused the PUC of "social engineering." He contends the PUC's role was more clearly defined by state law.

Judge refuses to dismiss lawsuit over sex harassment by sheriff

BOISE (UPI) — A judge refused to dismiss an employee sexual-harassment lawsuit against Bingham County Sheriff Mike Shiosaki Friday.

But he also declined to reinstate those who lost their jobs amid the sheriff's office controversy.

Attorneys for Shiosaki and the county had asked U.S. District Court Judge Ray McNichols to throw out the case on the grounds that the sheriff's alleged actions were not covered by federal laws against sexual harassment.

"I'm satisfied that if there is some sexual harassment which makes an employee uncomfortable or consider quitting, it falls within the purview of today's law," McNichols said.

Sexual harassment used to be legally defined as existing only when direct solicitation of sexual favors was involved, he said. But he said allegations such as those leveled against Shiosaki — that he rubbed, fondled and kissed female sheriff's employees — now were worthy of court consideration.

The $1.3 million civil suit — filed against Shiosaki earlier this year by nine former or present employees — also alleges he observed strip searches of juveniles.

McNichols said the cause will be allowed to go to trial, probably at Pocatello, but no date was set.

The judge refused a request by the plaintiffs to reinstate three fired employees, saying such a move could create "chaos" in the Blackfoot sheriff's office.

"Small law enforcement agencies can't function with people at sore spots with one another," McNichols said. "There has to be loyalty and cooperation. It could cause chaos."

McNichols also agreed with Shiosaki's attorneys that the county and the sheriff in his official capacity should not be liable for punitive damages. Now only Shiosaki personally faces the $100,000 punitive-damages claim.

In a desposition last week, Shiosaki denied he made sexual advancements to his female workers or fondled them.

Shiosaki had been in office two months when he fired three female deputies and sexual-harassment allegations were leveled against him. He claimed in the deposition that the fired workers were insubordinate.

The hearing on the motions centered on a discussion of what constituted sexual harassment.

Marcus Nye, representing Shiosaki and the county, said he believed sexual harassment was constituted only when sexual favors are solicited, not by touching without threat of dismissal.

Evans mulls suit to halt silver sale

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho governor's office is conducting a "serious study" to determine the feasibility of filing suit to halt the Reagan administration's plans to sell silver from the national strategic stockpile, Gov. John Evans said Friday.

KBOI-Radio in Boise said the governor admitted efforts are underway to gain support for the legal move from the mining industry and governors in other western silver-producing states.

But Evans said no decision would be made concerning a lawsuit until early next week, the radio station said.

"If there is substantial opposition from either the industry or from the other elected officials then I doubt very much if it would make much sense to file that suit," Evans told KBOI.

But the governor said the mining industry seems to be backing away from supporting attempts to block the sale, which is planned for Wednesday.

He said the mining companies oppose the suit because "they feel it would only be a temporary termination."

Idaho Attorney General David Leroy said a successful lawsuit must prove the sale — or any resulting action — hurts someone, such as depressing the market. But at the moment, he said, he has obtained little evidence to support any claim that such harm would result from the sale.

Tenant 'itching' to sue

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — Jim Orton says he is "itching" to get his former landlord into court to answer claims that an apartment he rented was so infested with fleas that a child received more than 80 bites in just one night.

"Everywhere you'd scratch with your finger on the rug, 10 of them would pop out," said his wife, Barbara. "The situation was much like that Alfred Hitchcock movie, 'The Birds.'"

The Ortons have filed a $10,000 lawsuit against their former landlord, Ray Clem, claiming they are entitled to the money to pay for mental anguish, medical bills and other damages.

Orton said their first night in the dwelling was so horrible they were forced to immediately vacate.

Their five-year-old child was bitten more than 80 times that night, the parents said, and the bugs got into furniture and clothing.

Clem said he had had the apartment sprayed for the insects prior to renting it to the Ortons.

Salmon BLM boss retires

SALMON (UPI) — Harry Finlayson, district manager for the Bureau of Land Management's Salmon office since 1972, announced his retirement Friday.

Finlayson, 54, said he will spend his last day with the BLM on Oct. 30.

The Conrad, Mont., native and a graduate of the University of Montana began his BLM career in 1952. He served with the agency in Worland, Lander and Pinedale, Wyo., and Craig, Colo., in addition to Battle Mountain, Nev.

"Finlayson's competence as a BLM district manager was responsible for a large share of the successes the BLM has had in the Salmon District during the last decade," Idaho BLM Director Bob Buffington said in Boise. "The preparation of the Challis grazing environmental impact statement along with the completion of resource plans for the Challis unit called for Harry's unique skills and experience in working with people."

Finlayson said his ranching interests in Montana will take some of his time during retirement, but he said he would continue to reside in Salmon.

Health boards cooperating

SANDPOINT (UPI) — Local and state human-services agencies have struck up a new spirit of cooperation after years of conflict, partly as a result of funding cutbacks, those attending the state Conference of District Boards of Health say.

But just how cozy the groups should get continued to draw some disagreement at the Sandpoint meeting.

The conference this week marked the first time the Idaho Health and Welfare Board attended a meeting of the district boards, a conference official said.

"I've thought (the sessions) went very well because of the participation between the two groups," said Dennis Hamann, Sandpoint, conference chairman. "We're going to solve a lot of problems before they become big problems."

Plans for cooperation between the groups include a joint meeting early in the legislative session next year and joint lobbying of legislative committees.

Hamann attributed the increased interaction, at least in part, to changes the Idaho Health and Welfare Department is undergoing because of funding cuts.

"The attitude has changed because we found out more about the other agencies" in dealing with funding reductions, he said. "The attitude in the past was more or less an adversary" relationship between the state's seven district boards of health and the state board, he said.

In past years, "you were looking around for spies," and the districts feared the state body would try to take them over, said state Sen. Vernon Lannen, D-Pinehurst.

And although funds have been reduced, people still need services and "one of the ways you can take care of them is by not [illegible]," Lannen said.

But some specific suggestions on how the bodies could cooperate didn't meet with as much agreement.

Rep. Darwin Young, R-Blackfoot, said he wants a few representatives of the health districts to serve on the state board. He sponsored legislation to that effect last year, but Gov. John Evans vetoed it.

The governor told Young he would place three representatives of the districts in advisory positions to the state board, a decision Young said was not a satisfactory solution.

If district representatives were to become members of the state board, "then you end up with a polarized group, and you're plagued with indecision," said state board member Marvin Whittman of Culdesac.

And state board Chairwoman Pamela Bowen, Rexburg, said there is "diverse opinion" among the health districts.

"It is very important that the state Board of Health and Welfare maintain its independence," she added.

Craig misused franking privilege

BOISE (UPI) -- A staff aide has admitted that campaign brochures for Rep. Larry Craig, R-Idaho, were mailed in postage-free government envelopes.

Larry LaRocco, a Boise Democrat running against Craig, pointed out that congressional rules prohibited the use of the incumbent's "franking" privileges for mailing campaign literature.

Craig's district administrator at Boise, Karmen Larson, said Wednesday the use of the privilege was a staff error, and she issued an apology to constituents on behalf of Craig and his staff.

Ms. Larson said the congressmen would repay the government the $2.22 it cost to mail some 100 campaign brochures.

LaRocco said he did not plan to file a formal complaint with the Federal Elections Commission because he believed Craig was not aware of the violation.

U.S. Marshal for Idaho appointed

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Falls lawman Blaine Skinner has been appointed U.S. marshal for Idaho, Sen. James McClure said Thursday.

Skinner, 48, was Bonneville County sheriff for 11 years and before that was a security officer at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

McClure, R-Idaho, nominated Skinner last spring from a field of 13 candidates. Skinner will succeed Tony Skoro, a former Gem County sheriff who has served two four-year terms as Idaho's U.S. marshal.

Idaho SAT scores are above average

BOISE (UPI) —, Idaho's college-bound seniors who took the Scholastic Aptitude Test last spring exceeded national averages in all areas of testing.

Idaho Superintendent of Public Instruction Jerry Evans said the Idaho students' scores surpassed national levels on the verbal, mathematics, written English, reading comprehension, vocabulary and history segments of the test — and increased significantly in verbal and math areas.

The Idaho students' scores rose for the second consecutive year, he said.

Evans said the average verbal score was 486 in Idaho, while students taking the test across the nation averaged 424. The average mathematical score in Idaho was 523, he said, compared with 466 nationally.

Only 948 of the almost state's 15,000 twelfth graders last year took the test — required for admission to some universities. Most college-bound students took the American College Testing program exam.

Wilderness protest deadline Nov. 9

BOISE (UPI) — Citizens have until Nov. 9 to protest a Bureau of Land Management plan to set aside 21,100 acres in the St. Anthony Sand Dunes as a wilderness study area, Idaho BLM Director Bob Buffington said Friday.

Buffington said he has decided to set aside the acreage in the Sand Mountain area, but the remaining 23,562 acres in the study area have been dropped from further wilderness consideration.

He said analysis of comments received after his June 1981 proposed decision resulted in deletion of a 240-acre parcel in the Sand Mountain unit due to a "lack of naturalness."

Any protests to Buffington's final decision will be considered as officials proceed with the wilderness-study program, he said.

Nuclear plant bailout studied

SEATTLE (UPI) — Washington Public Power Supply System officials reportedly have offered Northwest industries and investor-owned utilities a large share of the output of two stalled nuclear power plants as a means of saving them from forced termination.

WPPSS is pursuing a $150 million rescue plan that calls for mothballing the two unfinished plants at Hanford and Satsop, Wash., for two years, while regional power planners decide whether their output will be needed and cost-effective.

The plan has the informal approval of the 88 Northwest public utilities owning shares in the plants. But there are still major obstacles to the plan's final acceptance.

Officials estimate it will cost $150 million in administrative, maintenance and other costs to keep the plants barely alive until at least June 1983. A large proportion of that — $60 million — is needed before the end of the year and $25 million alone is needed by Nov. 1.

Under the proposal, the 88 owner utilities would pay $60 million, direct industrial customers of the Bonneville Power Administration would contribute $27.5 million and four major private utilities would pay the remaining $52.5 million.

For their contributions, the industrial firms, mostly aluminum companies, and the private utilities are being offered 5 billion kilowatt hours of guaranteed power from WPPSS plants No. 4 and No. 5 when they come on line. Prior to the tentative plan, the aluminum companies and private utilities weren't slated to receive any of the power since they weren't backing the plants.

In addition, each party would have to agree to make equal monthly payments and if one wasn't able to make its payment, all parties would be released from paying.

A further facet of the mothball plan, as described by Rockne Gill, a Portland attorney involved in the financial negotiations, is a provision to use the BPA to funnel the collected funds back to WPPSS, partly because the BPA already has a billing apparatus.

The industrial firms, mostly aluminum companies, originally made it a condition of their share that 12 public utilities drop a lawsuit against the BPA's long-term electricity contracts with the firms.

However, the public utilities refused and aluminum companies reportedly backed off their demand and were supporting the new mothball plan Thursday.

The second major obstacle was unexpected. Portland General Electric, one of the private utilities giving informal assent to the mothball plan, said Wednesday it had turned down a proposal to take part in the bail-out.

The pullout by PGE would mean the other three private utilities involved — Puget Sound Power & Light of Bellevue, Wash., Washington Water Power of Spokane and Pacific Power & Light of Portland — would have to increase their share.

There was no immediate word on whether the private utilities would agree.

Construction work all but stopped weeks ago on WPPSS plants No. 4 and No. 5 because there is no money to pay for further work and future financing is uncertain.

Utilities may not survive if plants fail

BOISE (UPI) — Northwest public utilities with a stake in two financially troubled nuclear power plants in Washington state probably could not survive if the projects fell through, the Bonneville Power Administration's chief said Friday.

Administrator Peter Johnson told an Idaho business and industry group that the two Washington Public Power Supply System plants — headed for mothballs for two years due to financing problems — present a "white hot crisis" for Northwest utilities and electricity consumers.

If problems surrounding two of the five WPPSS plants get somewhat worse, the BPA should be able to protect its customers from many of the effects, Johnson said. But an involuntary bankruptcy and a subsequent demand by creditors for $2.1 billion in debts on the partially built plants would be devastating for public utilities in the region, he said.

"I doubt any of them — even the biggest ones — could survive that," Johnson said.

The BPA chief, however, said he was optimistic that mothballing the plants for two years — even at a cost of $150 million — would be a step toward saving the two plants, sisters to three other plants supervised by WPPSS and BPA.

He said it was estimated the two plants would cost $6 billion each once they were completed, but he said the cost may be reduced through various financial maneuvers that will be considered within the next few years.

"They are beyond the margin of cost effectiveness at this time, but we don't know what could happen" to the financial situation within the next couple of years, Johnson told the Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry.

If it is decided the two plants should not be built, there are several potential uses for the facilities, Johnson said. One possibility would be converting them into nuclear-fuel production plants for the Defense Department, he said.

Johnson also predicted success for the BPA and the Northwest Power Planning Council in extending and upgrading the Northwest's power-distribution system without driving costs too high for BPA clients and their customers.

Stolen book might have shut down phones

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Four young "computer freaks" have been arrested for stealing Pacific Telephone computer manuals that told how to gain access and how to shut down telephone service in the entire Los Angeles area.

Investigators said Lewis Payne, 21, Mark Ross, 25, and two unidentified juveniles stole technical manuals from the phone company's COSMOS computer center May 31.

The four could have used the information to shut down much of the phone system of the metropolitan area serviced by the firm, investigator Robert Ewen said.

Although such a disruption could have been substantial, "it probably could not have shut down the network," Douglas M. Cambern, assistant vice president for external affairs said.

"There are too many safeguards and so many transactions that would have been required."

Ewen said the challenge of penetrating the computer systems — not economic gain — appeared to be the motive.

"The phone freaks of the past have graduated into a new generation of computer freaks," Ewen said. "They obtain their thrills from the challenge of penetrating the systems."

Two of the suspects were also allegedly involved in a computer fraud in which computer activities of U.S. Leasing Co. in San Francisco were disrupted, causing an estimated $250,000 damage, Ewen said.

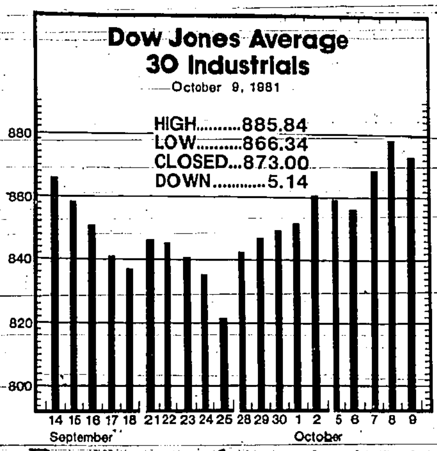
Wall Street eases up; investors grab profit



By FRANK W. SLUSSER
United Press International

NEW YORK — Stocks, off to a strong October start, took a breather Friday.

Prices fell while investors cashed in on recent profits despite some favorable inflation news.

Trading was moderately active.

Dean Witter Reynolds was the star of the session, scoring an impressive gain in heavy trading after agreeing late Thursday to merge with Sears, Roebuck in a $607 million cash-stock deal. The rest of the list struggled.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 9.42-point winner, dropped 5.14 points to 873 after seesawing throughout the day. But it finished the week ahead 12.27 points.

Prior to Friday, the Dow average of 30 blue-chip stocks had climbed 54.13 points from its Sept. 24 low of 824 in a strong rally fueled by lower interest rates.

Technical analysts, such as Kidder Peabody's Ralph Acampora, said "the market is acting normally. It's had a big run up and now it's pausing. There's nothing unusual about that."

Investors apparently discounted the government's report that September wholesales prices rose only 0.2 percent, the same as in August. The 4.8 percent annual growth rate indicated inflation was moderating. The New York Stock Exchange index surrendered 0.41 to 70.33 and the price of an average share decreased 17 cents. Advances edged declines, 775-742, among the 1,866 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Big Board volume totaled 50,060,000 shares, up from the 47,090,000 traded Thursday when many investors were observing Yom Kippur.

Some investors were disappointed that no other bank so far has joined Chase Manhattan in lowering the prime lending rate to key corporate customers a half point to 18½ percent. Chase lowered its rate Thursday.

After the NYSE closed, the Federal Reserve, which has been under pressure from Treasury Secretary Donald Regan to ease its policies a bit, reported the nation's money supply declined $2.1 billion in the latest statistical week.

At the same time, the Fed lowered by one percentage point the surcharge to frequent large borrowers at its discount window.

Vice President George Bush told the Business Council the White House supports the Fed's policies. And the Business Council's economists said they supported President Reagan's plans.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter at 4 p.m. totaled 57,385,400 shares compared with 52,594,400 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index shed 1.39 to 314.14 and the price of a share eased seven cents. Advances topped declines 330-232 among the 753 issues traded. Volume totaled 4,540,000 shares compared with 3,990,000 Thursday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers's NASDAQ index of over-the-counter stocks added 0.26 to 191.27.

On the trading floor, Dean Witter, trading for the first time since Tuesday, was the fourth most active NYSE-listed issue, up 12½ to 47¾ after an opening block of 125,000 shares at 47¾.

Sears was third on the list, up ½ to 17¾ even though the nation's largest retailer said it expected to report slightly lower third-quarter earnings.

Coldwell Banker, the nation's largest retail brokerage that Sears is buying also, finished unchanged at 41 in active trading. The stock rose sharply earlier in the week after Sears announced its $179 million offer.

Among the other Wall Street brokerage issues, E.F. Hutton lost 2¼ to 38, Merrill Lynch 1¼ to 34⅝ and Donaldson, Luftkin and Jennerette ⅜ to 10¾.

Computer-giant IBM was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up ⅛ to 55⅞ after a block of 100,000 shares crossed at 56.

Santa Fe International, a big winner this week, was the second most active issue, up ⅛ to 42⅞. Kuwait has agreed to buy the company for $2.5 billion. Some congressmen are concerned about the acquisition.

Coastal Corp., which has been mentioned as a takeover candidate and which recently indicated it was thinking about changing its structure, climbed 3⅛ to 44⅞.

Helene Curtis plunged 2¾ to 15. The cosmetics company reported second quarter earnings of 42 cents a share versus 57 cents a year ago.

Tandy Corp., a 1½-point winner Thursday following a favorable broker's recommendation, eased ⅛ to 33 after a block of 150,000 shares at 33½.

On the Amex, Hudson's Bay Oil & Gas was the most active issue, up ⅝ to 34¾. Dome Petroleum followed, off ⅛ to 11¾. AZL Resources was third, up ⅜ to 26.

AAV Corp. gained ¾ to 7⅞ after the company reported its second-quarter earnings soard to 61 cents a share from 14 cents a year ago.

BIC Pen advanced ½ to 12½ The company has formed a new leisure division to import and sell French sailboards under the BIC name.

Report card

Kaiser profits plummet over quarter

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Slow demand and poor prices for aluminum cut third quarter profit of Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. to 28 cents a share from $1.16 a year earlier.

The huge drop occurred in spite of an 11 cents a share gain on foreign currency translations against a loss of 5 cents a share from this source a year ago.

Net income was $12.3 million on sales of $780 million compared with $48.9 million a year ago on sales of $825.2 million.

For nine months, Kaiser earned $148.9 million or $3.46 a share on sales of $2.508 billion compared with $204.6 million or $4.91 a share a year earlier on sales of $2.653 billion.

Chairman Cornell C. Maier said he blamed low aluminum prices more than weak demand or rising costs for the profit shrinkage.

Whirlpool gains with Brazilian help

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — A surge in earnings by its Brazilian affiliate helped Whirlpool Corp., the appliance maker, to earn $1.12 a share in the third quarter, up from 91 cents a year ago.

Chairman John M. Platts said higher interest income and a better cost-price relationship also contributed. Major home appliance unit shipments fell 4.4 percent in the quarter.

Net income was $40.61 million on sales of $653.2 million compared with $32.85 million a year ago on sales of $631.18 million.

For nine months, Whirlpool earned $108.28 million or $2.99 a share on sales of $1.838 billion compared with $67.42 million or $1.86 a share a year earlier on sales of $1.595 billion.

Case trims plant shifts

RACINE, Wis. (UPI) — J.I. Case, noting a sluggish demand for construction equipment and farm tractors, said Thursday it has scheduled a four-week January shutdown of plants in six states.

The shutdown will affect Case plants at Bettendorf and Burlington, Iowa; Rock Island, Ill.; Terre Haute, Ind.; Racine, Wausau and Winneconne, Wis.; Wichita, Kan., and Pryor, Okla.

About 8,500 employees will be affected by the shutdown, which begins Jan. 4, officials said.

Industry sales rates for construction equipment thus far in 1981 are off about 40 percent from the 1978 level, a spokesman said.

Grain futures

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wheat was mixed, corn and oats higher and soybeans irregularly higher at the close Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat was off 1¼ to up 1½ cents; corn unchanged to up 1¼; oats up ½ to 1½; and soybeans up ½ to 3 cents.

Trading was light with slight hedge pressure at the close. The major factor in the markets was anticipation of the USDA crop production report released after the close.

After the close, traders' initial reaction to the report was slightly bearish for corn and soybean futures.

The markets were strong on a weaker U.S. dollar abroad. Carryover strength from Treasury bonds continued through the day.

The NSPA soybean crush report was bullish.

Earlier pressure also was due to clear weather for better harvesting progress. Frost warnings were issued for Friday night in the northeastern corner of Indiana. Cool temperatures were to continue in the Great Lakes region until warmer temperatures develop this weekend.

Promotions bolster September sales

Mixed results for retailers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Special promotions were credited with propping retail sales at some major chains in September but the overall results at the largest firms were mixed.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. had a 9.3 percent gain in sales in September from the same month last year to $1.825 billion; K mart Corp. sales spurted 20 percent to $1.57 billion; J.C. Penney sales rose 4.4 percent to $1.045 billion; F.W. Woolworth sales were up 0.6 percent to $654.31 million; Montgomery Ward reported a 0.2 percent gain to $505.2 million.

Among the regional chains, Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., a Bentonville, Ark.-based firm with 469 stores in a 13-state area, said sales jumped 62 percent in September to $192 million. Sales on the basis of the 305 stores it had in September, 1980 rose 18 percent.

Strong consumer spending at the retail level has been credited with propping the economy to date despite signs of weakening in other areas. But this vital segment could well be in for a period of weakness.

"Already the strength of household finances has been eroded by high rates of inflation and finance charges which, if accompanied by an upturn in the unemployment rate and slower personal incomes growth later this year, could foeshadow a sizable cutback in consumer spending," Manufacturers Hanover bank said in this week's Financial Digest.

Woolworth and Penney sales figures both were adversely affected by foreign operations. Woolworth said domestic sales rose 7.2 percent in September and total sales would have increased by 5.8 percent if foreign exchange rates had remained constant. Penney said domestic sales rose 6.3 percent; its Belgian operations, "while ahead of September 1980 in local currency," were about 18 percent lower in U.S. dollars.

K mart said the September 1981 results reflected 184 more stores than the company had last year. A spokesman said the gains "reflected heavy promotional activity in which we offered deep discounts on many items. Price-conscious consumers are responding to such promotions."

Among department stores, Federated Department Stores, Inc. September sales rose 14 percent to $625.6 million; Dayton Hudson Corp. said sales rose 18.8 percent to $411.66 million; May Department Stores Co. reported an 8.8 percent gain to $315.9 million; and Carter Hawley Hale Stores said sales rose 11.8 percent to $255.4 million.

Homeowners eat government funds with tax breaks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tax breaks for homeowners will cost the government more than $39 billion in lost revenues this fiscal year, says a new Congressional Budget Office Study released Friday.

While various tax subsidies for homeowners — such as deductions for mortgage interest payments and property taxes — make home ownership more affordable for many Americans, it also keeps rates for all taxpayers higher than would otherwise be necessary, the report said.

The study, prepared at the request of Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of Congress' Joint Economic Committee, lists eight options for cutting revenue losses by reducing or eliminating various tax breaks for homeowners.

However, in keeping with the budget office's mandate to provide objective and impartial analyses, the report makes no recommendations.

The study said, "Marginal tax rates could be at least 10 percent lower at fiscal year 1982 income levels if the deductions for mortgage interest and property taxes, the deferral and exclusion of capital gains for home sales and the use of tax-exempt bonds for owner-occupied housing were eliminated."

Reuss said the study suggests "even massive tax advantages have not been able to stem the terrible depression which the housing industry is today facing."

"It is time," he said, "to consider whether the housing industry might not be better off with fewer tax breaks, and much, much lower interest rates."

Huge government deficits are partially responsible for current high interest rates since the government must borrow in the public credit market to finance its debt, crowding out private borrowers and forcing up interest rates. The administration believes reduced government spending will help lower interest rates.

In his most recent budget message, President Reagan directed the Treasury Department to come up with recommendations for at least $3 billion in tax increases for this fiscal year. The preliminary list of proposals, which would require congressional action, did not mention homeowner tax subsidies — generally considered too politically sensitive to touch.

The report said that in fiscal 1982 that began Oct. 1, homeowners will save about $25.3 billion in federal income taxes by deducting their mortgage interest payments. In addition, they will save $10.7 billion by deducting property tax payments.

The balance of homeowner tax subsidies comes from deferring capital gains payments by selling a home and purchasing another within the alloted time, excluding the first $125,000 from capital gains taxes when the seller is 55 or older, and using tax-exempt bonds to finance private home mortgages.

The report listed the following options for cutting government costs:

- Limit the amount of deductible mortgage interest payments.
- Limit property tax deductions.
- Reduce the $125,000 exclusion from capital gains from home sales for those 55 and older to $50,000.
- Tax home sale profits at time of sale, abolishing the incentive for homeowners to keep reinvesting in housing and freeing up some personal savings for non-residential investment.
- Create a new tax credit or deduction for renters to discourage people from buying houses solely for tax reasons.
- Converting the deduction for home mortgage interest payments to a flat-rate tax credit.
- Eliminating the deductibility of mortgage interest or property tax payments for second homes.
- Concentrate more of the tax benefits for homewonership on first-time home buyers.

U.S. dollar retreats on foreign markets

By MARY TOBIN
United Press International

The U.S. dollar retreated on foreign exchange markets Friday, although it steadied in New York after the wholesale price index show the lowest inflation growth in two years.

Gold forged ahead in Europe on lower U.S. interest rates and concern over Egypt, but it fell back in New York after the government's price report was released.

In Zurich gold closed at $453.50 an ounce, against $447.50, and in London it ended the week at $453, compared with $446.

In New York the cash gold price was $448.50 at the close compared to $448.25. The New York Commodity Exchange settled gold at $488 compared to $448.60.

Silver rose to $9.50 an ounce from $9.45 Thursday and it settled on the Comex at $9.47, up from $9.46.

A London dealer said the decline in U.K. and overseas interest rates continued to boost bullion markets. Another trader said there still was concern over the potential for political instability in the Middle East following the assassination of the Egyptian President.

But New York dealers said interest rates dominated trading in the early going.

The government's wholesale price index showing inflation at a 2.2 percent annual rate put "a lot of deflationary pressure on gold" in the afternoon, one said. Historically, gold thrives when inflation is high as a hedge against the erosion of the value of paper money.

The dollar continued to weaken in Europe as Eurodollar rates eased reflecting the drop in the cost of money in the United States.

The dollar steadied in New York after Treasury Secretary Donald Regan and Vice President George Bush reaffirmed the administration's support of the Federal Reserve's monetary policies, although Regan called on the Fed to bring the money supply back to the middle range of its 3½-6 percent growth target.

Trading was quiet on both foreign exchange and bullion markets as many dealers took a long weekend following the Yom Kippur holy day Thursday.

In London, the pound bought $1.9010, compared with $1.90 Thursday, although it eased to $1.8980 in New York. Sterling had not traded at $1.90 since July.

In Tokyo the dollar edged back to 228.50 yen from 229.50 then fell to 226.40 in New York.

European closing rates with late New York prices in parentheses:

Paris, 5.5050 francs against 5.5.5325 (5.4950); Frankfurt, 2.19 marks, down from 2.2075 (2.1960); Zurich, 1.8410 francs, down from 1.8690 (1.8415); Brussels, 40.425 francs from 40.825 (36.83); Milan, 1163.55 lire against 1181.05 (1162).

The Canadian dollar surged to 83.68 U.S. cents from 83.37 reflecting the widening differential between interest rates in the two countries.

Food stamp identification required in larger cities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Food stamp recipients in 17 major cities will be required to produce photo identification cards to pick up their stamps under anti-fraud rules issued Friday by the Agriculture Department.

Elderly and disabled recipients can be exempted from the requirement.

"The new photo ID system is principally designed to prevent the issuing of duplicate benefits," said Agriculture Secretary John Block.

It is [illegible] intended to prevent ineligible people from using food stamp authorization cards stolen from the mail to obtain stamps illegally.

New York City will be the first to implement the system beginning Nov. 1. The new rules give state welfare agencies up to a year to institute the system in metropolitan areas with at least 100,000 food stamp recipients.

Those areas include Washington, Baltimore, Newark, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, San Diego, Los Angeles, San Antonio, Atlanta, Miami, Chicago, Memphis, Cleveland, Detroit, Houston and New Orleans.

About 7 million of the nation's 22 million food stamp recipients live in those cities.

San Juan, which has more food stamp recipients per capita than any American city, was not included in the system because Congress voted to put Puerto Rico under a block grant system, allowing the commonwealth to devise its own food program separate from food stamps beginning next year.

In special cases, areas with smaller populations may be ordered to install the systems if Agriculture Department officials decide it will protect the program's integrity.

Until now, recipients have had identification cards but states could not require photographs on them. States will have an option of adopting drivers' licenses to the program.

Although the Reagan administration is pushing hard to reduce fraud and abuse in the program, the photo identification system actually was initiated and approved by Congress during the Carter administration.

Officials said they were unsure how much money the change will save. It is expected to cost $8.21 million, split evenly between the federal government and the states.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Here is another hand from International Popular Bridge in which the author, P. F. Saunders, pokes a little fun at himself and at the 12-14 point notrump that is still played by some of our British friends.

The play by South is as neat a swindle as we have ever seen and we consider it well worthy of our friend, the well-known "Generous George."

The bidding is of the catch-as-catch-can nature and there is no real play for the contract, but our "generous" British declarer found the play to make it. He covered the jack of hearts with dummy's queen.

East took his king and led back the nine of hearts. Wouldn't you? South promptly discarded his ace of diamonds on dummy's heart ace. Then he led the queen of diamonds for a ruffing finesse. It didn't matter when East played his king. South would ruff and play three rounds of trumps winning the third lead with dummy's nine. Then he would discard any remaining low spades on any remaining high diamonds and make the slam.

Note that East could have beaten the slam by leading back a club or diamond at trick two.

EPA Est. Hwy MPG* — EPA Est MPG

Look at all these standard features that don't cost you extra...

- 1.5 liter 4-cylinder SOHC engine
- Fully transistorized ignition
- 4-speed synchromesh transmission *
- MacPherson strut front suspension
- Rack-and-pinion steering
- Power-assisted brakes (front disc, rear drum)
- Steel-belted radial tires
- Styled steel wheels
- Mist-cycle windshield wipers/washer
- Reclining hi-back front bucket seats
- Power-boosted Flo-thru ventilation
- Black urethane bumpers
- Rust-inhibiting front fender liners
- And more ... more ... more.

Compare these features. You may not find a better value on the road today.

*Remember: Compare these estimates to the EPA Estimated MPG of other vehicles. You may get different mileage depending on how fast you drive, weather conditions and trip length. Actual highway mileage will probably be less than the EPA Highway Estimate

Gooding wins Canyon clash over Bulldogs

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — Confrontation and conjecture merged Friday night, and in both cases Gooding High School got the better of it.

Barely, just barely outplaying Kimberly and receiving a favorable decision on a pivotal official's call, the Senators gained sole possession of the Canyon Conference lead by defeating the Bulldogs, 12-6.

The Senators' triumph gives them a perfect 5-0 mark in the Canyon Conference, ahead of Kimberly (3-1), Declo (3-1) and Valley (3-2). The state A-3 playoffs now seem to be in clear sight for Gooding.

"I'd have to say we're in a good spot, as good as anybody," Gooding Coach Paul Cox modestly admitted.

Modesty didn't exist on the field. For four quarters Gooding and Kimberly provided a microcosm of what World War III will surely be like.

"Will this make the front page?" Gooding quarterback Bob Hays asked a reporter after the game.

Many punishing battles do.

However, the punishment yielded to argument during the second-half kickoff. Gooding's Craig Bevercombe received the kick, traveled upfield and fumbled the ball, which bounced madly upfield before a Kimberly player recovered it.

Believing Bevercombe lost the ball after being downed, the officials declared that Gooding would maintain possession. The Bulldogs and Coach Gordon Hogan protested briefly but strongly.

What made the call so crucial was that Gooding proceeded to score the winning touchdown. Hogan refused to point to it as the sole difference in the game, but he nevertheless labeled it as consequential.

"You have to look at it as a very, very pivotal thing," Hogan said. "The ball was alive."

Cox felt less sure that Bevercombe lost the ball before getting tackled. "It might have been a case of his knee touching the ground. I'm pretty sure he wasn't standing up," the coach said.

After the disputed play, the Senators ground out the remaining 53 yards in 12 plays, Hays pushing it in from the one to extend Gooding's lead to 12-0.

Two key conversions on third down — Doug James' five-yard run on third-and-three at Kimberly's 46 and Rick Beck's 25-yard run on third-and-10 at the Bulldogs' 41 sustained the drive.

After relying exclusively on his backs, Hays himself pounded through Kimberly's defense to score on fourth-and-goal.

The Bulldogs retaliated quickly, requiring just six plays after the ensuing kickoff to cut Gooding's lead in half on Tim Cordier's 19-yard run.

Kimberly began the drive with excellent field position, recovering an onside kick at Gooding's 49.

The Senators appeared to have Kimberly stopped, but they roughed quarterback Rocky Eller on third down, prolonging the Bulldogs' bid.

Four plays later Cordier took the ball on a tailback dive. Apparently expecting something else, the Senator defense didn't notice Cordier until too late.

Kimberly gained possession three times thereafter, but was frustrated on each occasion.

The first time was probably the most excruciating. A face mask penalty on a punt return gave Kimberly the ball in Gooding territory early in the fourth quarter, but on the first play from scrimmage running back Jeff Livingston fumbled, Gooding recovering.

The next time, the Bulldogs held Gooding at their own five and marched inside the Senators' 35, but a sack of Eller and two straight incomplete passes killed that march.

Kimberly's final frustration lasted only a short while, as Eller's pass with 17 seconds left was intercepted by Gooding's Brad Tinker.

A nine-play, 62-yard drive ending in Bevercombe's 12-yard run provided Gooding with the only points of the first half. The 6-foot-8, 141-pound senior romped untouched into the end zone on a draw play.

Miller comes off bench to lead Twin Falls past Pocatello

POCATELLO — Brock Miller brought his passing arm off the bench in the second quarter and led Twin Falls past Pocatello 20-14 Friday night.

The Bruins had been listless offensively and — due to three pass interference calls — inconsistent defensively. They trailed 6-0 when Miller made his appearance in the second quarter and put the game even with a one-yard quarterback sneak with 54 seconds left in the half.

But he saved his best for the [illegible] quarter when the defense sparked into life — holding Pocatello to 14 yards. Miller took the Bruins to a pair of touchdowns and the victory. Twin Falls piled up 101 yards in the period and Miller's passing accounted for 56 of those.

After that Twin Falls returned to its ground game and for a while Doug Tate and Virgil Hurt ate up the clock and the yardage. But a fumble at midfield set up Pocatello's final eight points with 3:31 left in the game.

There were more anxious moments when Pocatello blocked a punt with just over two minutes remaining but the defense refused to wilt. Doug Bateman and Paul Dewitt tipped [illegible] final two passes that sealed Pocatello's doom.

The victory allowed Twin Falls to end a three-game losing skid and even its record at 3-3-1. Pocatello absorbed its seventh defeat in as many games.

Pocatello had a big chance when Twin Falls fumbled on its first offense play, setting the Indians up on the Bruin 37-yard line. But Mike Watkins stymied that with an interception and the teams traded punts until the early second quarter.

Pocatello put together a 65-yard drive to take the lead, but its best play was pass interference. Three times the Bruins were flagged for that — the first taking away a second Watkins interception he returned to the Pocatello 16.

The payoff came on a three-yard power sweep by Curt Draper but Twin Falls blocked Dave Romasko's extra point.

Twin Falls' tying drive started with a fair catch interference call that moved the ball out to the Bruin 45. A pass to Steve Galley got a first down and Scot Scherer and Tate picked up first downs to the 25. The Bruins then turned to a little trickery, Scherer throwing a halfback pass to Brent Standing that carried to the one. Miller sneaked across from there but a penalty killed the extra point.

Twin Falls got its second-half momentum going by gambling and winning on a fourth and one at the Pocatello 49 early in the third period. From there Miller passed to Galley for a first down and a pass interference call moved the ball to the 22. Scherer, Miller and Hurt punched out a first down to the 11.

A penalty killed a Miller to Galley touchdown pass but two plays later Miller hit Galley on a slant to send the Bruins ahead to stay. Standing converted.

Four plays later, Pocatello had to punt, Twin Falls taking over on its own 47. The Bruins moved to the touchdown in eight plays, the big gainer being a 20-yard strike from Miller to Standing to the Pocatello six. Three plays after that, Tate belted in from the one and Standing [illegible] converted with 47 seconds left in the third quarter.

Perhaps the key to the victory came minutes later when Pocatello punted the ball dead at the Bruins two. Twin Falls got one first down but then had to punt. Two plays later, Bateman picked off a Pocatello pass at the 25. Twin Falls then wasted four minutes before fumbling at midfield to set up Pocatello's second touchdown and the closing minutes of action. The Indians' final score was a 30-yard bomb from John Hansen to Ross Clark. Draper ran the two-pointer across.

Celebrating Oakland players gang up on pitcher David Beard

Henderson, A's oust Royals

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Rickey Henderson provided the foot and Rick Langford the arm Friday night, leading the Oakland A's to a 4-1 victory and a sweep of the Kansas City Royals in the American League West Division Series.

Henderson, hitless in nine at-bats in the first two games of the best-of-five series, had two singles and two walks, stole a base and scored three runs as the A's finished the year where their manager, Billy Martin, said they would — No. 1 in the West.

Mike Norris and Steve McCatty beat the Royals, defending A.L. champions who got into the playoffs because of the strike, in the first two games at Kansas City and Langford, with help from Tom Underwood and Dave Beard over the final 1 2-3 innings, added the knockout blow in the third.

There was some question that Langford might not be able to start the game because of soreness in his right elbow, injured in a freak pre-game accident on Wednesday. But Langford, a slender right-hander who is regarded as a gutty performer, insisted he was all right, and he showed it despite giving up 10 hits.

In the second inning, Langford was hit on the right ankle by a line shot off the bat of Hal McRae. Even though he had a lump as big as an egg, he refused to come out, and Martin showed his confidence by leaving Langford in.

"You have to be proud of him," said Martin of Langford.

Henderson walked in the first, stole second as Cliff Johnson was striking out for the second out and then dazzled the Royals when he scored on an infield single by Tony Armas. The A's managed to score only one run in the third despite three singles, a walk and three Kansas City errors, because Royals starter Larry Gura was able to strike out two batters and Dwayne Murphy was out trying to steal home.

"That scared me," said Martin, who led the young A's to their first title of any consequence in his second year as their leader..."I thought we should have gotten more out of that inning."

Henderson started the inning with a single and made it to second when the Royals, who had him picked off, threw the ball away in a rundown. Murphy then dragged a bunt past the mound for a hit and when second baseman Frank White threw the ball away, Henderson scored to make it 2-0.

In all, Kansas City lost its last five games of the year, all to Oakland.

Umpire, Brewers have same feeling — bruised but alive

NEW YORK (UPI) — Umpire Mike Reilly and the Milwaukee Brewers felt roughly the same way Friday night — a little bit bruised but feeling much better.

"I think for the first time in three days we feel like we're alive," Simmons said after his three RBI helped the Brewers stave off elimination in the American League East Division playoff with a 3-3 victory over the New York Yankees in a game marred by a fan's sudden attack on Reilly.

"We won more games than any team in our division and we feel we earned the right to play in this series," continued Simmons, who put the Brewers ahead with a two-run homer in the seventh inning and doubled home an insurance run in the eighth. "We had a rough time in the first two games, but to win today we feel alive."

Milwaukee's victory, which cut New York's lead in the best-of-five series to 2-1, would have been more stirring had it not been scared by the ugly attack on Reilly in the seventh.

"I would say at this time that after talking to the Major League Umpires Association, we will file suit," said a composed Reilly after the game. "All I know is that he tackled me. I didn't see a blackjack. It happened so fast. I will talk to Richie Phillips, attorney for the Major League Umpires Association.

"At this time I don't feel too much but I haven't been tackled like that since I played high school football. I think fan violence over the last few years is out of hand and I can see something like this happening again."

Reilly said it happened too quickly for him to recognize if the fan smelled of alcohol, but nevertheless said that perhaps such beverages should be banned in ballparks.

"My personal opinion is that a lot of people behave differently (after drinking)," he said.

Paul Molitor's leadoff homer in the eighth snapped a 3-3 tie and forced a matchup today at 2:05 p.m. MDT between New York's Rick Reuschel and either Pete Vuckovich or Moose Haas of the Brewers.

"For the first time this year, I feel I have an advantage over my teammates, I know what Reuschel throws," said Simmons, who faced him for several years in the National League. "It makes you feel more comfortable. You've got get him regardless of who it is. The guys have

Decelo runs past Valley to set up showdown

DECLO — The Declo Hornets, riding the timely passing of Kelly Kidd, downed Valley 31-13 Friday night to set up a Canyon Conference showdown with the Gooding Senators next week.

Kidd hit just six of 17 pass attempts for just 56 yards but three of them were strikes that gave Declo touchdowns. In addition, the quick Hornet senior scored on a quarterback sneak to start the scoring parade.

It was the second league defeat for the Vikings and probably doomed their hopes to return to the state A-3 playoffs. Meanwhile, coupled with Gooding's 12-6 decision over Kimberly Friday night, Declo climbed back into a position where a win this week could put them back into the title picture. However, Kimberly remained only one game back in the lost column.

"We caught them at the right time and I guess we were pretty lucky," said Declo Coach Mike Matthews, referring to Valley's playing without quarterback Gary Taylor and running back Marlin Mussman, out with injuries.

"They picked up 203 yards on us but they couldn't throw real well and that allowed us to key on the run," Matthews said.

Valley converted receiver Roy Escobedo to quarterback in Monday's practice.

"But I thought Rod Buttars had a heckova game for us," Matthews said. "He had seven individual tackles, picked up 111 yards in 13 carries and caught two passes for 38 yards."

"The thing that really made the difference was the way we were able to control the ball. All of our touchdowns came after pretty long drives," he added.

Declo seized the lead in the first quarter when Kidd capped the opening drive with his sneak. The conversion run failed.

Just 15 seconds into the second quarter, Kidd and Denny Smeyer hooked up on a 13-yard touchdown pass but again the conversion pass was knocked away.

A fumble exchange set up Valley's touchdown. The Vikings appeared to have blown a good drive when they fumbled at the Declo 20. But on the first play, Declo fumbled it back and the Vikings took it in four plays later on an Escobedo three-yard run.

Declo took the second-half kickoff and drove for a touchdown, cashing in on a Kidd to Todd Asher pass for seven yards.

It stayed like that until the fourth quarter when Kidd and Curtis Hanzel collaborated on a seven-yard scoring pass and with 1:58 left in the game the Hornets moved completely out of reach when Lamont Kowitz scored on a 13-yard run.

Valley posted its final touchdown with 15 seconds left when Escobedo scored on a 30-yard reverse.

Highland 19, Minico 16 (ot)

POCATELLO — Highland's Merrill Hodge plunged across on a fourth-and-one situation in overtime Friday night to lift the Rams past the Minico Spartans 19-16.

In a stirring defensive duel, the two teams traded early touchdowns and battled each other through a grinding fourth quarter to bring on the overtime.

Highland won the toss and elected to defend. Minico moved only to the four-yard line in three plays and dropped Denny Seward back for a three-point field goal.

Highland then moved to the one in three plays and put the season on the line with the fourth-down gamble that paid off.

The result left Minico and Highland tied in the Gem State Conference with two losses, one behind Skyline and Idaho Falls.

Minico drew first blood when Byron Grant picked off a Highland pass and returned it to the Ram one-yard line. Kirby Bright belted in from there but the conversion kick failed.

The lead lasted quickly, Mark Colto taking the kickoff on his own 10-yard line and weaving through the Minico defenders on a 90-yard kickoff return. Rick Zamora added the extra point.

Minico regained the lead in the second quarter when Darrell Tracy capped a drive with a seven-yard strike to Kent Patterson. Seward tacked on the point-after.

Minico held that lead until the third quarter when Ryan Campbell shook loose for 22 yards with an option pitch. The center snap was fumbled by the holder and Minico stopped the attempted scramble to leave things at 13-13.

Glenns Ferry 54, Shoshone 44

GLENNS FERRY — Glenns Ferry won an eight-man, 11-man game — and also a 10-man and nine-man battle — in a fun battle with the Shoshone Indians Friday night.

"It was the funnest game I've ever seen," said Coach Paul Shrum, easy for him to say since his Pilots won 54-44.

However, Shoshone, which wound up its first campaign in eight-man football with an 0-5 record, also had its first fun of the year.

The difference came when Glenns Ferry outscored Shoshone by 10 points in the third quarter. The fourth quarter was rollicking for both sides, taking turns scoring three times apiece.

The original format of the game was Shoshone playing 11-man defense against Glenns Ferry offense and the Pilots responding with eight-man defense when Shoshone had the ball.

But inbetween times, there were some odd assortments. Shoshone had a player hurt, reducing it's able bodies to 10 — so Glenns Ferry pulled out a player. Minutes later Shoshone was down to nine and Glenns Ferry again responded in kind.

In fact, Glenns Ferry's Harley Riggs probably set some kind of Idaho record when he returned a kickoff for 70 yards in a nine-man set up.

At game's end, Shoshone's Richard Conklin has amassed 237 yards on 37 carries and Rusty Warbis added 93 more on nine rushes. Todd Edwards paced Glenns Ferry with 172 yards in 12 tries.

Blackfoot 20, Burley 6

BLACKFOOT — Harold Hendricks, one of the state's top track sprinters, showed some of that speed Friday night in helping Blackfoot celebrate homecoming with a 20-6 decision over the Burley Bobcats.

Hendrickson broke an off tackle play for a 40-yard touchdown late in the third quarter to break a tight defense duel Blackfoot's way.

Burley was unable to mount a consistent offense against the Blackfoot defense and notched its touchdown as the result of a blocked punt.

Blackfoot took the lead seven and one-half minutes into the came when Chuck Rhea hit Hendricks on a screen pass and his speed helped him turn it into a 25-yard scoring play. Garth Kneiting ran for the two-point conversion. For a long while it appeared that might be the difference in the game.

With less than a minute left in the half, Burley blocked a Blackfoot punt and recovered at the 11-yard line. On the first play, quarterback Kelly Keicher kept on an option play, ducked inside and rolled into the end zone.

Blackfoot stopped the two-point conversion run just short of the goal to preserve an 8-6 advantage.

Just 3:14 remained in the third period when Hendricks started moving Blackfoot away with his 40-yard gallop. The conversion run was stopped.

Middleton 40, Jerome 8

MIDDLETON — Mark Lane's running and a ballhawking defense carried the Middleton Vikings to a 40-8 romp over the Jerome Tigers Friday night.

Jerome's problems were obvious from the outset when three-year starting quarterback Bob Stone showed up with an ankle injury. The senior tried to play in the first quarter but couldn't and Jerome passed the leadership on to freshman Sean Jund.

"We didn't want to use him but we didn't have anyone else," said Coach Jon Jund. "I thought he played all right considering the circumstances."

"I think the turning point in the game came when they went down and got one early and we came right back into their territory. They only gave us three downs and turned the ball over to them. We couldn't convince them (the officials) that they cost us a down. But Middleton's coach said 'yeah, they only had three because we weren't considering putting in our punt return team.'"

The Vikings scored twice in the first quarter, Ross Oswald capped a drive with a one-yard plunge and Lane added the second from three yards away. Tom Post added the extra point.

In the second quarter Lane broke loose on a 46-yard gallop but the score remained at 19-0 when the conversion try failed.

Early in the second half Jerome fumbled and then turned back Middleton at its 21. A pass interception gave Middleton another try from the Tiger 30 and this time Lane capitalized on it with a one-yard plunge. Shortly after that, Tom Loving picked off another Tigers aerial and galloped 40 yards to score. Post converted.

Jerome broke the shutout early in the fourth quarter when Zane Ostler got outside and ran 75 yards for the touchdown. He also added the two-point conversion.

But in the waning minutes, Middleton bounced back for another score, the payoff coming with 48 seconds left on a five-yard strike from John Weber to Tim Thiemans. Post converted.

Camas Cty. 42, Clark Cty. 14

FAIRFIELD — Camas County was near offensive perfection Friday afternoon.

The Mushers had the ball for just five plays in the first quarter, but produced three touchdowns for a 22-0 lead en route to a 42-14 Sawtooth Conference win over Clark County.

Camas' performance actually started on the first punt of the game as Musher Joe Cox blocked a Clark County punt by Greg Shenton. Camas took over at the Clark County 15 and David Lemons scored on the first play, going 15 yards. Lemons also scored on the conversion run for a 8-0 Camas lead.

Clark County's next posession was stopped by the Mushers and Shenton again punted, giving the Mushers the ball at the Clark County 48.

Kurt Swartz gained 28 yards on a pass from David Simon on first down before Lemons broke 20 yards for his second TD. The conversion pass failed, leaving the Mushers, 4-3 overall and 2-0 in the conference, ahead 14-0.

Clark County was again forced to punt and a short kick gave the Mushers the ball at the Clark County 38.

Simon gained one yard on the first play before Lemons charged 37 yards for his third six-pointer of the quarter. Lonnie Funkhowser caught a pass from Simon the the conversion for a 22-0 Camas lead.

"That was pretty much the game," Camas County Coach Ed Blankenship said. "We got to play a lot of kids on our homecoming game."

Raft River 28, Murtaugh 12

MURTAUGH — Two big plays in the first half gave Raft River the edge as it defeated Murtaugh 28-12 in Magic Valley Conference play Friday.

Wade Smith took a Jeff Wallace pass 60 yards for Raft River's first score and minutes later Carl Bodin went 74 yards to the Murtaugh four where Dan Udy took it on the next play.

Raft River scored once in the fourth period when Wallace combined with Udy on a 35-yard TD pass.

"The two long plays in the first half killed us," Murtaugh Coach Jim Anderson said. "I would like to credit Barry Messner's defensive play. If it wasn't for him we probably would have lost by 50. He made at least half the tackles."

Castleford 46, Hagerman 6

HAGERMAN — The Castleford Wolves gave away an early scoring chance but then seized control in beating the Hagerman Pirates 46-6 Friday night.

The Wolves fumbled on their first play which set up a field goal try for the Pirates. It was missed and Castleford then marched for the touchdown that put it ahead for the night.

Rance Pugmire capped that opening drive with a three-yard burst and it remained at 6-0 until the final three minutes of the half.

Then Castleford exploded for two quick touchdowns. The first came on a 17-yard strike from Pugmire to John Zamora. Ken Burgess caught the conversion pass from Pugmire. Just before the half ended, Allen Sample scored on a 13-yard dash to make it 20-0 at intermission.

FILER — Displaying unstoppable offensive firepower, Wendell High School crushed Filer Friday night, 66-28.

Wendell's victory keeps them out of the Canyon Conference basement with a 2-3 conference record. Filer drops to 0-5.

Once again, Rod Hegi led the Trojans' attack, scoring four touchdowns despite facing a Filer defense that keyed on him.

"They burned us on things we had seen before," Wildcat Coach Joe Leach said. "We just couldn't stop them."

Oakley 44, Hansen 0

OAKLEY — Oakley quarterback Mark Cranney ran for two touchdowns, passed for two and returned an interception for a one more to lead the Hornets to a 44-0 thrashing of Hansen Friday night.

Oakley got on the board early with a four-yard touchdown run by Rick Adams and followed with Cranney TD runs of 15 and 51 yards. Cranney hooked up with Vince Anderson on a 49-yard touchdown pass and Stuart Johnson went 45 yards for a TD all before the first half was over.

Even with a comfortable 32-0 halftime lead, the Hornets didn't let up in the third period. Cranney intercepted a pass and went 34 yards for a touchdown. Cranney again hooked up with Anderson for a touchdown, this time for 27 yards.

Both teams were scoreless in the final 12 minutes.

"The kids were up for this one. We had to win this to clinch at least a tie for the conference (Magic Valley) championship and the kids just went out and got it," a happy Oakley Coach Doug Bailey said.

Buhl 19, Wood River 6

HAILEY — The first home night game for Wood River turned into a nightmare for the Wolverines.

Wood River, playing for the first time under home lights, held Buhl in check for three quarters but the Indians scored 13 points in the fourth period for a 19-6 win Friday night.

Buhl scored midway through the first period on a two-yard run by Dave Wagner. Wagner's six-pointer was set up by a 40-yard pass from Mark Lively to Mark Laing down to the Wood River two.

Wagner's score capped an 84-yard drive that was kept alive on a 15-yard penalty by Wood River when Buhl faced third and long.

Following the score, both teams played scoreless football until 1:13 left in the first half when Wood River's Tracy Reynolds intercepted a Lively pass and ran it 65 yards to paydirt. The two-point conversion failed and it was 6-6 at halftime.

The two South Central Idaho Conference teams didn't score until Buhl's Dave Wagner ran 24 yards and added the extra point to give the Indians a 13-6 lead with six minutes remaining.

Wood River's comeback attempt was foiled when Wood River's Zane Drussel threw back-to-back interceptions to Buhl's Charlie Carter and Kyle Davis in the fourth period. Carter's theft came when the Wolverines were inside Buhl's 20-yard line.

Lively hit Brad Wray on a 24-yard touchdown pass with 21 seconds remaining to ice the victory.

Buhl, 3-4 overall and 1-1 in SCIC play, travels to Burley Friday to clash with the Bobcats. Wood River, 1-5 overall and 0-3 in conference travels to Filer Oct. 23.

Richfield 36, Rockland 0

ROCKLAND — Richfield gained its first Sawtooth Conference victory in surprisingly easy fashion Friday afternoon, trouncing Rockland, 36-0.

"I wasn't (expecting such a one-sided game) because they gave Camas County a little bit of a run for three quarters and they played well against North Gem," Richfield Coach Joe Hendrickson said.

The Tigers got all the points they needed early in the first quarter on John Fredrickson's two-yard run, which was set up by a 60-yard pass from quarterback Darren Exon to his brother, halfback Scott Exon.

Later in the period Darren Exon notched his first of two touchdowns on a 12-yard run. The junior signal-caller added a 15-yard scoring jaunt in the second quarter.

Scott Exon and Stacy King romped for touchdowns of 35 and six yards, respectively, in the third quarter.

"Everybody played heads-up ball," Hendrickson said of his Tigers, who improve to 1-1 in conference and 2-2 overall.

Hendrickson was especially proud of freshman Tracey Rogers, who replaced injured brother Theron (knee) at offensive guard and performed admirably in his first varsity start.

Hendrickson was also pleased by the fact that nobody particularly stood out on defense during the Tigers' shutout effort.

"I couldn't pick out one kid right now," Hendrickson said. "Looking at the tackling statistics, they're even throughout. That's the way you like it."

North Gem 18, Carey 14

BANCROFT — North Gem quarterback Clint Straatman ran for two scores and passed for one more to lead the Cowboys past Carey 18-14 Friday afternoon.

Carey fell to 1-1 in the Sawtooth Conference and 2-3 for the season. North Gem is 2-0 in the conference for a first-place tie with Camas County. The Cowboys are 4-1 on the season.

Straatman put North Gem on the scoreboard after a scoreless first quarter with a 49-yard jaunt in the second. Straatman hit Paul Ackerman early in the third quarter with a 19-yard strike.

Carey's first score came when Brad Tingey intercepted a Straatman pass and ran 49 yards for a touchdown. Tingey hooked up with Mark Conrad for the two-point conversion.

Straatman put the game out of Carey's reach late in the third quarter on a nine-yard score.

"It was one of those games where it was close but you just can't get any breaks," a dejected Carey Coach Scott Peck said. "The offense just didn't work but the defense played head-to-head all day."

Tingey found Andy O'Crowley for a 22-yard touchdown in the fourth period for Carey's fruitless final score.

Carey, 2-3 overall and 1-0 in the Sawtooth Conference, hosts Richfield Friday afternoon.

been concerned that we hadn't scored any runs. I guess we were longing a little bit. When I hit the homer, we [illegible] quickly."

New York Manager Bob Lemon was more puzzled by the umpiring incident than anything else.

"I don't even know what happened," he said. "It's amazing how people get so wrapped up in a ballgame."

In the seventh, trouble erupted for both the umpire and the Yankees. Cecil Cooper singled off the glove of Yankee first baseman Bob Watson and with most of the crowd of 54,171 watching the play at first, the fan darted from the stands along the third base line and charged Reilly.

Yankee third baseman Graig Nettles was the first to come to Reilly's aid and was quickly followed by left-fielder Winfield and both benches.

The fan, identified as Frank H. Kuraczea Jr., of Ansonia, Conn., was dragged from the scene by Stadium personnel. Police said he would be charged with criminal trespass and disorderly conduct. Reilly has the option of pressing assault charges. Police said the fan was in possession of a blackjack.

The incident possibly unnerved Yankee starter and loser Tommy John, who had allowed only three hits and no runs over the first six innings. But Simmons, who had gone 2-for-23 against Yankee pitching this season, launched a 1-2 pitch into the left-field stands for a home run. It gave the Brewers a 2-1 lead and broke a Milwaukee scoreless skein of 19 innings.

When the Brewers manufactured another run on a single by Gorman Thomas, a sacrifice by Ben Oglivie and a single by Sal Bando, it appeared the Yankees were in trouble, especially with relief ace Rollie Fingers entering the game for Milwaukee.

LA's 'swinging plan' defeats Houston

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Steve Garvey said if the Los Angeles Dodgers were going to get knocked out of the National League West playoffs Friday, they were going to go down swinging.

Garvey's two-run homer highlighted a three-run uprising in the first inning and paced the Dodgers to a 6-1 victory over the Houston Astros, keeping them alive in the best-of-five divisional series.

Burt Hooton allowed just three hits over seven innings as Los Angeles cut Houston's lead to 2-1. The fourth game was scheduled to start at 6:05 p.m. MDT today with the Dodgers' Fernando Valenzuela facing Vern Ruhle. A fifth game, if necessary, is scheduled for Sunday at 2:05 p.m. MDT.

"We knew we had to be aggressive in all phases — batting, running and pitching," said Garvey. "That was the key. We knew there was no tomorrow so we might as well go up there and start swinging. Even if you don't make contact, that aggressiveness sets a good example for the whole team.

"We weren't going out sitting down. If we were going out, we were going out battling."

Ruhle now has the task of trying to wrap up the series for the Astros.

Asked about the difference in pitching at the Astrodome and Dodger Stadium, where the ball carries much further than in the Astros' indoor field, Ruhle said, "Both teams will be playing under the same circumstances. It can work for both sides. We have guys who can reach the seats also. Tomorrow, the Dodgers are going to be the Dodgers. If we play good defense and get some timely hits, we'll be okay."

Davey Lopes opened the first with a walk off Houston starter Bob Knepper and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Ken Landreaux. Dusty Baker then doubled off the left-field wall, scoring Lopes. Garvey followed with his homer, deep into the left-field seats, giving the Dodgers a 3-0 lead. It was Garvey's second home run of the playoffs.

Knepper, 9-5 during the regular season with a 2.18 earned run average, lasted just five innings, allowing six hits before giving way to Frank LaCorte, who held the Dodgers hitless for two innings before giving way to a pinch hitter in the eighth. Joe Sambito, who earned the victory in Houston's 1-0 triumph Wednesday night, was tagged for three runs and four hits after he replaced LaCorte.

Houston scored its lone run in the third when Art Howe led off by lining a 1-0 Hooton pitch into the seats in left field for a home run.

Howe opened the eighth with a walk and Hooton was replaced by Steve Howe, who got pinch hitter Dickie Thon to fly out and then struck out pinch hitter Gary Woods and Terry Puhl to end the inning.

In the bottom of the eighth, the Dodgers added three runs on four hits off Sambito. Pedro Guerrero opened with a double but was forced at third on pinch-hitter Derrel Thomas' attempted sacrifice bunt. Steve Yeager then singled with Guerrero stopping at second. Bill Russell followed with an RBI single with Yeager taking third.

Pinch hitter Reggie Smith delivered a sacrifice fly to right, scoring Yeager and sending Russell to third. Lopes was intentionally walked before Landreaux knocked in the Dodgers' sixth run with a single to right.

Sambito was replaced by Billy Smith, who got Baker to ground out to end the inning.

Bob Welch, who was scheduled to start the game before Dodger Manager Tommy Lasorda changed to Hooton, pitched the ninth inning for Los Angeles.

The Dodgers, who managed just one run in losing the first two games by scores of 3-1 and 1-0 in 11 innings, pounded four Houston pitchers for 10 hits, including three extra-base hits.

"I told them that I believed more than anything in my life that we would win today and I wanted them to think that way.," Lasorda said. "I told them that we beat them three straight last year and that we could do it again."

Lasorda said his team came out with "aggressiveness, enthusiasm and confidence and I was proud."

In defending his decision to go with Hooton instead of Welch, Lasorda said, "my coaches and I had a meeting to decide who we should pitch today and we decided to go with Burt because of his record against the Astros this year."

Hooton, who allowed three hits and one run over seven innings, is now 4-0 against the Astros this season.

Hooton, who won 11 games during the regular season and posted a 2.28 ERA, struck out two and walked three. Prior to the game, Hooton had allowed just two earned runs over his last 21 innings.

The Astros have lost 12 of their last 14 games at Dodger Stadium.

Christenson escapes noose to save Phils from the gallows

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — It seems rather apropos in the wild and wacky world of the Philadelphia Phillies that a guy whose own neck was in the noose all season should save the world champions from the gallows Friday.

The Phillies, one loss away from losing their crown, got a stay of execution from right-hander Larry Christenson, who had labored reluctantly in the bullpen for the last six weeks of the season.

Christenson, starting for the first time since August 24, pitched six strong innings and teamed with two relievers to stop the Montreal Expos 6-2 and keep the Phillies' flickering NL East playoff hopes alive. Sparky Lyle and Ron Reed pitched the last three innings, allowing one run and four hits between them.

"I was very satisfied with the way I pitched," said Christeson, who allowed one run and four hits while striking out eight before leaving the game for a pinch-hitter in the bottom of the sixth. "I could have gone longer, but the way I've been hitting this year and my boo-boo on the bunt (in the fourth), you couldn't blame Dallas (manager Green) for pinch-hitting for me."

The Expos, who protested the game in the fourth because of a controversial call on Christenson's bunt, still lead the best-of-five series two games to one and can win their first National League East title with a victory today. Scott Sanderson will pitch for Montreal and Dickie Noles will hurl for the Phillies, who needs a victory to get even.

"Noles is a street-fighter," said Green. "He is itching to get in there and pitch."

There were many heroes for the Phillies Friday, but the most notable, besides Christenson, were third baseman Mike Schmidt, left fielder Gary Matthews and pinch-hitter George Vukovich.

Schmidt broke out a playoff slump with two hits and made a game-saving defensive play in the seventh inning. Matthews had three hits and scored two runs and Vukovich delivered a clutch pinch RBI single while batting for Christenson in the sixth to trigger a two-run inning that gave the Phillies a comfortable 4-1 lead. Old reliable Pete Rose also did his part with an RBI single in the sixth.

"We were backed up against the wall," said Green. "Christenson did a heck of a job and George Vukovich got the big hit. I knew hit (Christenson) would be ready to go."

The Expos, flying high emotionally after beating the Phillies in the first two games, came back to earth with a thud.

"Boy, that was a lousy game we played today," Expos' first baseman Warren Cromartie said after Montreal contributed heavily to the Phillies' 6-2 victory with four errors, many more mental mistakes, and a lack of timely hitting.

"You can't play good ball all the time; you're going to have a bad game once in a while," said reliever Bill Lee, who spoke from experience.

Still, the consensus in the quiet visiting clubhouse at Veterans Stadium was that the Expos' humbling experience could only help them today when they try to clinch their first NL East championship in Game 4 in the best-of-five series with Scott Sanderson on the mound.

"Sometimes you fly a little high and you've got to get back to earth," counseled pinch-hitter and substitute first baseman John Milner, who went through a similar situation two years ago as one of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Not that we were looking for it or anything, but today probably was just a matter of getting out all the rough spots. Now we can settle down and play good baseball," Milner said.

And, more than one Expo pointed out, all they have to do is play one good game of baseball, while the Phillies have to win two.

"They've got to win three in a row; all we have to do is win one more," Cromartie said.

Mixed scramble will benefit TF golf team

TWIN FALLS — A mixed team scramble will be held at Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course Sunday to benefit the Twin Falls High golf team.

The entry fee is $10. Half of the entry fee will go to prize money and half will go to the golf team.

Players must be signed up by 9:30 a.m. and the event is open to all golfers. No Idaho Golf Association card is needed.

Bird leader with 33 as Celtics top 76ers

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Larry Bird led all scorers with 33 points Friday night to lead last season's NBA champion Boston Celtics to a 103-94 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers in their exhibition opener.

Bird poured in 15 points in the opening quarter and Kevin McHale added 8 in the second to provide Boston with a 47-43 halftime edge. Julius Erving kept Philadelphia close with 10 first-half points.

McHale finished with 16 points, while Cedric Maxwell and Robert Parish each added 13 for the Celtics.

Erving led the 76ers with 32 points, while Darryl Dawkins, Maurice Cheeks and Andrew Toney had 10 points apiece.

Sutton has surgery to mend kneecap

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Houston Astros' pitcher Don Sutton, who fractured his kneecap in game against the Dodgers one week ago, underwent successful surgery Friday morning.

Dr. Frank Jobe performed the surgery at Centinela Hospital. During the two-hour operation, two metal screws were inserted in the kneecap, fusing the broken bone together.

Doctors said the surgery was successful and said the prognosis was excellent that Sutton, who had an 11-9 record and a 2.60 ERA in 23 appearances this season, would pitch again next year.

Rogers sentenced to 8 years in prison

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — George Rogers Sr., father of New Orleans Saints running back George Rogers, was sentenced Friday to eight more years in prison for killing two people in a traffic accident.

The elder Rogers, paroled last fall from a life prison sentence for a 1972 slaying, was convicted of involuntary manslaughter for the deaths of Clifton Elbert Black and his 16-year-old daughter Wanda Jean.

Prosecutors said Rogers was intoxicated July 31 when his car slammed head-on into Black's car on rain-slick Georgia Highway 124. Rogers suffered a punctured lung in the crash and Black's wife was seriously injured.

Gooding-Declo open A-3 volleyball play

WENDELL — Conference champion Gooding will lead off action in the Fourth District A-3 Girls Volleyball Tournament Monday.

Coach Jolene Toone's Senators will meet the Declo Hornets at 4 p.m. with host Wendell taking on Filer at 5:15. The remainder of the first round will have Kimberly meeting Valley at 6:30 and Glenns Ferry taking on Shoshone at 7:45.

The first night's action will wind up with the Gooding-Declo loser meeting the Wendell-Filer loser at 9 p.m.

A junior varsity tournament will be held in conjunction with the double elimination varsity event.

The pairings include 4 p.m., Kimberly vs. Glenns Ferry; 5:15, Wendell vs. Valley; 6:30 p.m., Shoshone vs. Filer; 7:45 p.m., Declo vs. Gooding, and 9 p.m., losers of the first two games.

Green denies report he's inked with Cubs

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dallas Green, manager of the world champion Philadelphia Phillies, denied Friday that he had accepted a front office position with the Chicago Cubs upon completion of the Phils' season, but his players believed that the transaction has taken place.

"I have not signed any contract with the Cubs," Green said prior to the Phillies playoff game with the Montreal Expos. "Nothing has changed since our last meeting."

Green confirmed that he had met three times with the Cubs to discuss the position of executive vice president and general manager, which would reportedly pay him $200,000 and fringe benefits. A published report in the Friday editions of the Philadelphia Daily News said that Green had officially accepted the post.

Yastrzemski signs final Red Sox pact

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox Friday signed 16-time All Star Carl Yastrzemski to a contract that will insure the durable captain will finish his career with the only major league team on which he has ever played.

The agreement, announced at a Fenway Park news conference as Yastrzemski's "21st and final" contract with the Red Sox, calls for him to play the 1982 season with an option to play in 1983.

Red Sox Vice President Haywood Sullivan said the contract contained a unique clause that will permit Yastrzemski, 42, to decide jointly with Sullivan at mid-season next year if he will play the following season.

The financial terms of the agreement were not disclosed, but Sullivan said the pact contained some "hard incentives."

Kentucky St. QB charged in robbery

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Kentucky State's second-string quarterback, Alphonso Bailey, 20, of Indianapolis has been arrested and charged with armed robbery.

State police said Bailey, nabbed Thursday during football practice on campus, is a suspect in Monday's robbery of a store at Georgetown, 12 miles northeast of Frankfort.

Authorities said Bailey was held in the Scott County Jail, Georgetown, pending arraignment, with bond set at $50,000.

KSU Coach LeRoy Smith said Bailey had been suspended from the team, pending the outcome of the investigation.

Three suits valued at $1,000 plus $600 dollars cash allegedly were stolen from the Phipps Clothing Store, Georgetown.

Police said the bandit, armed with a revolver, also gagged and tied two store employees during the robbery but they were not harmed.

Golden Eagles dominate invitational, but foot injury may sideline Woods

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Karl Kleinkopf hardly looked like a winner Friday.

The CSI coach had just watched his Golden Eagles collect five of the first nine places and win their own cross country invitational.

But just seconds before, Les Woods, who finished fifth, pulled up suddenly about 30 yards from the finish and hobbled across.

"It snapped, coach," he said with a grimace as he approached the line.

"If Les is shot, so is our season," said Kleinkopf who, especially with Friday's grouping, was thinking more toward regional and possible national honors. "We just don't have the sixth man to take his place," noting CSI's sixth best Friday was a 28th-place finish.

The injury to Woods dampened the team victory and the individual win by CSI sophomore Henry Carvajal, who turned the five miles in 27:09.

The Golden Eagles nipped Idaho State 30-29 for the team title, followed by Ricks at 67, Montana State 93 and Northwest Nazarene 175.

Idaho State, leaving two men at home, and CSI ran in a group most of the first lap around the Canyon Springs Golf Course layout. At one time in the second lap, the Eagles had five of the first six.

Carvajal, however, knew when he was going to make his move. The sophomore from Bogota, Colombia, is known as a hill runner and No. 4 fairway is mostly uphill.

"I had the plan," he said afterward. "I knew this course and I ran the race in my mind last night. I decided I would try to break away on the hill."

He went from maybe a couple-yard lead on a 10-man pack into a 25-yard advantage and with about a mile left in the race had pushed that up to perhaps 100 yards.

ISU's Steve Kresl, Kurt Davis and Bill Devine tried to pick him up but Carvajal won by about 35 yards.

Meanwhile, Woods was in the thick of things for third place, having Davis and Devine split. He moved past Davis by a couple of yards — and then came the obvious malfunction in his foot.

Woods was chased across by teammate Christy Davis and after Rob Harker scored for Ricks, Alvaro Palacios and Ralph Lara wound up CSI scoring.

Idaho State finished 10th and 11th to miss the Eagles by a point.

Carvajal was happy with the victory, noting "the last two races were not too good for me. It is good to win here. This is our place," he said of the home course advantage.

After a late Friday evening examination by a specialist, Kleinkopf was more optimistic. "He said he (Woods) definitely had popped a muscle in his heel but that it wasn't a major muscle and there was a chance he could come back. The thing that encouraged me most was that when Les left the hospital, he was walking on it. If I can find a (swimming) pool for him to workout aerobically the next couple-three weeks, we might be contenders again."

"I'm just tickled pink with the guys tonight. I think Idaho State was a little sorry they left that one runner home," Kleinkopf added.

Crow sets course record

Bruin girls take Gem title

POCATELLO — Senior Tammy Crow set a course record in leading Twin Falls's girls to the Gem State Conference cross country title Friday.

Highland ran off with the boys crown with 34 points, hardly pressed by runner-up Minico at 67.

Crow turned [illegible] Red Hill course in 10:43 as five Bruin girls placed in the top eight.

"Tammy ran a very strong, very sensible race," said Coach Duane Stands afterward. "She let the Pocatello girls led the first half mile but just kept letting it out a little more all the time. In the latter part of the race she was very strong, awesome, in fact."

Stands said Crow's performance didn't overshadow the rest of the team by much.

"The girls score has to be quite impressive," he said. "The way they ran on such a demanding course . . . it was the best grouping our girls have ever run. There wasn't a great deal of difference in the times."

Minico placed two men in the top five of the boys race but the Spartans couldn't match the grouping of Highland. The Rams, paced by individual champion Greg Kelly, had four in the top 10, Pocatello, which wound up third, had three in the top 10 but couldn't match Highland and Pocatello in depth.

"We feel that our boys did well," Stands said of the Bruin varsity. "They hung in pretty well. There's still hope, still two weeks," he added with a smile, refering to district competition against Minico.

Rookie holds lead at Southern Open

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — Payne Stewart, who qualified for the PGA tour this year, fired a five-under-par 65 Friday to take a three-stroke lead over Jerry Pate and four others in the rain-shortened second round of the $200,000 Southern Open.

Stewart's round of 65 included six birdies and one bogey and left him at eight-under-par 132 after 36 holes. Three strokes back at five-under were Pate, Calvin Peete, J.C. Snead, Bob Gilder and George Burns. Gilder had the day's best round at 64.

Late in the afternoon heavy rains and lightning forced tournament officials to suspend second-round play until today. About 20 players remained on the course when play was called.

Thus the cut will not be established until today.

Burns was the only one of three first-round leaders close to Stewart after two rounds. Another first round leader, Mike Sullivan, was at three-under after 36 holes while the other Thursday leader, George Johnson, was one-over.

Stewart, a 1979 graduate of Southern Methodist University, said he got some helpful advice from a brochure published by a local newspaper. "It said that if you want to score here, leave your driver in the bag," he said. "It made a lot of sense. You don't need the driver."

Stewart said he used a driver just four times over the relatively short 6,791-yard, par-70 course at Green Island Country Club Friday.

Going into the tournament, Stewart had won only $8,200 on the tour this year but had won two championships in Asia — the Indian Open and Indonesian Open. "I played good over in Asia and I just brought that over with me," he said.

The Springfield, Mo., native said he has had to qualify four times to stay on the tour since turning pro in 1979. His latest qualification came last spring after returning from Asia.

Despite his lack of success on the tour, Stewart said he isn't worried about pressure during the last two rounds. "I'm getting ready to go fishing in just a few minutes," he said. "Why worry about it?"

Stewart said he also received some help recently from acupuncture treatments to nerves in his ears. "Acupuncture deals with the brain," he said. "If I think it's helping me then it's going to help me."

Pate, considered the favorite going into the tournament, said he thought about dropping out after the first round because of a pulled muscle in the upper part of his right leg. "I'm just hoping I can walk two more rounds," he said. "I have a lot of confidence playing this course but it kills me walking up the hills."

Pate won the Southern Open in 1977 and 1978 and is seventh on the year's money list with $243,662. His previous victories include the U.S. Open and one tournament in 1981 — the Memphis Classic. He was the talk of golf for weeks when he dived into a lake near the 18th green after sinking the final putt in Memphis.

San Jose Classic

Carner, Alcott stay tied, lead pack of eight by one

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — First-round leaders JoAnne Carner and defending champion Amy Alcott shot even par 73 Friday, but still clung to a one-stroke lead over a group of women golf stars at the halfway point of a $150,000 LPGA tourney.

Carner and Alcott wound up with a five-under-par 141 for 36 holes over the Almaden Course. But eight women were within a stroke of the lead.

Sharing second place at 142 were Sally Little, Cathy Morris and Julie Stanger-Payne, all of whom shot 73 Friday. Janet Alex, who had a 72, and Cindy Hill and Jeanette Kerr, who joined the pack with four-under 69s.

Two shots off the pace at 143 were Sandra Haynie, Carole Jo Callison and Jan Stephenson.

Hill, who was four over par after five holes, suddenly turned in the hottest streak yet of the tournament. She fired seven birdies in eight holes on the way to her four-under par round.

Kerr, the former Arizona State star from Honolulu, also was sizzling as she hit only 12 greens but turned in a streak of four birdies in a row. She is only on her second year of the LPGA tour.

Nancy Lopez-Melton bogeyed the 16th and 17th holes to wind up at 1-over par 74 and was in the 144 slot with four others, including San Jose State rookie star Patty Sheehan.

First prize in the year's final tourney on the regular LPGA tour is $22,500.

College Football

Unbeaten Washington St. favored over OSU

By United Press International

Over the last dozen years, mention Washington State in a sports context and the first thought to come to mind is a long line of distance stars, and then most of them non-Americans.

Basketball gets a call or two.

Football? Never, because the Cougars have been the Pacific-10 Conference's doormats longer than they'd like to remember.

Since 1906, Washington State has gone unbeaten only three times, the last being a 9-0 season in 1930. Before that, they were 6-0 in 1906 and 6-0 in 1915. But in 1966, one victory was over Blair Business College and two over the Spokane Athletic Club.

So, there really has been nothing to crow about at Pullman, a small college town tucked away in western Washington. Dozens of coaches have come and gone in recents years, each feeling the frustration of having to play the likes of Southern California, UCLA, Washington, Stanford and California with inferior athletes.

But this season, the picture has changed dramatically with the Cougars beating Montana, Colorado, Arizona State and Pacific in their first four starts for a share of first place in the Pac-10 with USC, UCLA and California.

Today, Washington State plays Oregon State at Corvallis and is a solid eight-point favorite to run its record to 5-0. Oregon State, another Pac-10 doormat, fell to No. 1 USC last week, 56-22, its worst showing of the season, but the Beavers are considered a lot better this year than in the last five or six seasons.

Solid rushing by Tim Harris and Mike Martin highlight Washington State's offense, which is controlled by two quarterbacks — Clete Casper and Ricky Turner. On defense, Nate Bradley has three interceptions.

The Cougars don't expect many people to notice them this week because the Pac 10's more glamorous teams also are involved in league games — 4-0 USC hosting 2-2 Arizona, 3-1 UCLA playing at 0-4 Stanford and 3-1 Washington at 1-3 California. Oregon, 1-3, is at Arizona State, 3-1, to round out the schedule.

But that's all right. If the Cougars get by OSU, 1-3, then next week they should draw some attention with UCLA coming to town. And two weeks after that, they go to Los Angeles to meet the Trojans.

USC, with Marcus Allen in position to re-write almost every NCAA rushing record, is a 21 ½ point pick over Arizona, while UCLA is picked by 6 ½ over winless Stanford and defending Pac-10 champion Washington, which suffered its first loss last week, 4 ½ over Cal.

Allen rushed for more than 200 yards in each of USC's first four games — a record — and if he can average 154 yards in his last seven games he will become the first player in history to top 2,000 in a single season.

Allen has a career rushing total of 3,308 yards and ranks second to Stanford's Darrin Nelson among Pac-10 players active this year. Nelson, like Allen, has a chance to finish second on the All-time conference list behind only ex-USC star Charles White, who had 6,245 yards.

USC Coach John Robinson is upset because he thinks Allen hasn't received his due. Most critics think anyone could run behind the Trojans' massive offensive line.

"I don't think he's gotten the recognition he deserves," said Robinson of his talented tailback. "I hear that stuff about our line doing all the work and it makes me remember that there's a little bit of loser in all of us."

Only four of the six PCAA teams are in action this week — Fullerton State at Fresno State and Utah State at Pacific. San Jose State and Long Beach State are idle.

WAC

Hawaii at Wyoming tops today's games

DENVER (UPI) — The key game in the Western Athletic Conference today is Wyoming against Hawaii at Laramie, a contest that pits the league's best rushing team against the WAC's best defensive club.

Hawaii, jolted from the Western Athletic Conference title race by the Cowboys in 1980, were picked in the preseason this year as the team with the best chance to unseat league champ Brigham Young.

So far, the Rainbows are 2-0 but neither victory has been against a WAC team. Wyoming, with a win against Air Force, is 1-0 in league play and 3-1 overall. The Cowboys' only loss came in the season-opener against Oklahoma.

Last week, Hawaii was idle and Wyoming smashed Nevada-Las Vegas 45-20. UNLV Coach Tony Knap called the Cowboys a "definite WAC contender" and said, "It's been a long time since anyone manhandled us like that."

The Rainbows are ninth nationally in total defense, allowing 224.5 yards a game, and 10th in scoring defense, nine points allowed per game.

Wyoming is 13th in rushing offense at 269 yards a game and 14th in scoring at 30 points.

The only other game between WAC teams is Texas-El Paso, 0-2 in league play and 0-4 overall, against New Mexico, 1-1 in conference games and 1-4 overall.

Lobo Coach Joe Morrison said he is pleased his club is playing better than it did last year but said, "We must keep on improving and translate it into some wins."

New Mexico is 10th ranked nationally in passing and quarterback Robin Gabriel is 10th in total yards gained at 233.4 per game.

Last week, the Lobos fell to San Diego State 17-15, while UTEP was virtually inert against Utah, losing 38-10.

In non-conference games this week, a couple of WAC teams will have just about all they can handle. WAC teams are 11-9 against non-league opponents so far, but this week San Diego State meets rugged Iowa State, which tied Oklahoma last week 7-7.

And in Fort Collins, Colorado State must tangle with the Mississippi State Bulldogs, ranked 20th in UPI's coaches poll. It has been a despiriting start for the Rams, 0-4 over all and 0-2 in WAC play. Last week, in a battle of cellar-dwellers, CSU turned over the ball five times inside their 50 against Air Force, losing 28-14.

UNLV ventures to Provo for a game against BYU. BYU ranks first in the nation in total offense with an average of 485.6 yards a game.

Air Force travels to Annapolis to meet Navy in the first intraservice game of the year.

McMahon's playing status to be known at game time

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Brigham Young Coach LaVell Edwards puts it simply, if quarterback Jim McMahon can overcome his knee injury, he will play against Nevada-Las Vegas today.

McMahon missed last weekend's game, against Utah State. But he returned to practice Tuesday wearing a brace around his left knee. "He can cut a little with the brace on, and he can run and pass," Edwards said. "But, it limits his mobility."

"Still, if he's ready, he'll start," Edwards said.

But the BYU coach isn't about to risk McMahon against a non-conference opponent, when the eighth-ranked Cougars must play at undefeated San Diego State in a Western Athletic Conference game Oct. 17.

"We learned a valuable lesson against Utah State. We had to score two touchdowns in the final 4:08 to win," Edwards said. "If we get in that situation again this fall, I hope we can respond in the same way. Now that we've done it once, the confidence factor will help us."

The Cougars are 5-0 and have won their last 17 games — the longest winning streak among the nation's major college teams.

But, the BYU coaching staff said it won't know until game time whether McMahon will start, or even play. With him in, the Cougars are a different team. When he couldn't play against Utah State, BYU struggled all the way before winning 32-26.

McMahon is the defending national passing and total offense champion, and he's ranked No. 1 in total offense again this year and third in passing — throwing for 1,159 yards and 11 touchdowns in four games.

Nevada-Las Vegas also has a solid quarterback in senior Sam King, who has passed for 1,261 yards and six TDs for the Rebels. But King has also thrown seven interceptions, to only two for McMahon.

Michigan likely to beat rival Spartans

By United Press International

On paper, Michigan should easily beat Michigan State when the two teams meet today.

The Wolverines, coached by Bo Schembechler, have won three straight after dropping their season opener to Wisconsin. Michigan, ranked sixth, is coming off a victory over Indiana in which the Wolverines' offense accumulated 527 yards.

Michigan State doesn't look as impressive. The unranked Spartans are 1-3 and don't have a strong offense. But coach Frank "Muddy" Waters and his contingent do boast a strong defense that might give Michigan cause for concern.

Add to that the fact that the two teams are playing for bragging rights in the Great Lake State and, "There'll probably be a great game," decided Schembechler. "But remember this: Michigan is also called the Wolverine State. We'd like to keep it that way."

The Wolverines won last year's confrontation, beating Michigan State 27-23 in a game that was even closer than the score indicates. Schembechler certainly remembers that nail-biter, and he warned that the Michigan players must not take their rivals for granted.

"Our coaching staff has great respect for this Michigan State team, and our players had better be prepared for a tough afternoon," said Schembechler, who owns a 10-2 career mark against the Spartans. "This State squad battled two tough teams in Notre Dame and Ohio State on the road, and if anyone thinks that they are an easy team, just look at last year's football game.

"The Spartans have a fine defense; no question about that."

Highlighting Michigan State's defensive unit is cornerback James Burroughs, who has posted 16 tackles and one interception so far this season. He is a threat to halt Michigan's potent passing game, and Schembechler realizes the tenacious defensive back's lethal threat.

"Burroughs is an outstanding player who covers his assigned receivers like a blanket," Schembechler said. "Along with Carl Banks and (co-captain) George Cooper, he is one of the keys in the Michigan State defensive scheme."

Banks and Cooper are the team's leading tacklers and will pose legitimate threats to the Wolverines' offense. Banks has registered 48 tackles on the season while Cooper has made 43.

After the strong offensive showing during last week's 38-17 victory over Indiana, can the Wolverines' offensive machine falter this Saturday?

"I think that both offensively and defensively, this game will be a decisive one for us because we need to develop some consistency," Schembechler said. "I believe we can play better and stronger.

"The fact that their defensive unit relinquished just 27 and 20 points to two very strong teams like Ohio State and Notre Dame while remaining on the field for most of the game is a strong indication of that defense's toughness."

And what does Waters have to say about all this?

"Mr. Schembechler is absolutely correct in his analysis of our strong defense," said the Michigan State coach. "I think we'll give the Wolverines a difficult time. There might be a surprise or two come Saturday."

In other top-10 games, No. 1-ranked Southern Cal hosts Arizona, No. 2 Penn State hosts Boston College, No. 3 Texas plays No. 12 Oklahoma, No. 4 Pittsburgh visits West Virginia, No. 5 North Carolina hosts Wake Forest, No. 7 Alabama visits Southern Mississippi, No. 8 Brigham Young hosts Nevada-Las Vegas, No. 9 Georgia visits Mississippi, and No. 10 Clemson hosts Virginia.

Texas regents OK school pact with NBC

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — University of Texas System Regents voted Friday to approve UT-Austin's ratification of a College Football Association contract with NBC to broadcast football games of CFA member schools for the 1982-85 seasons.

Major colleges unhappy with the NCAA television contract formed the CFA, and negotiated their own pact with NBC. Under terms of the contract, each CFA member university is guaranteed a minimum of $1 million and of two television appearances over the four-year contract period.

UT-Austin currently has a court suit pending to block the NCAA from taking any punitive action against the university for its role in the CFA television agreement.

High-flying Broncos host inconsistent Lions

By IRA KAUFMAN
UPI Sports Writer

Strange things are happening in Denver, where the starling quarterback is older than the coach.

The Broncos have been on a "Rocky Mountain High" all season under rookie Coach Dan Reeves, 37, who left the blistering heat of Dallas and has quickly found happiness in Colorado.

Craig Morton, who seemingly beats out young hotshots every year for the No. 1 quarterback berth, is enjoying an incredible renaissance at the age of 38. Morton — whose career as a starter appeared washed up before the '80 season began when the Broncos traded for Matt Robinson — has emerged as the NFL's top-rated passer with 1,071 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Denver, 4-1, shares the AFC West lead with San Diego entering Sunday's game at Mile High Stadium against inconsistent Detroit and the Broncos' league-leading defense will face a stern test against all-purpose running back Billy Sims.

"Billy Sims may be the best runner we face all season and I don't think that's an exaggeration," says Denver defensive line coach Stan Jones. "He runs, he catches passes and he's just a total football player. There aren't too many better than him."

Denver, only 8-8 in 1980, comes off an impressive season sweep of the Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders and the Broncos' only blemish is a 13-10 loss in Seattle.

"No way I would have said we'd be 4-1," said Reeves. "But, even being 4-1, I would not have said we'd have lost to Seattle."

The Lions, who tied Minnesota for the NFC Central Division title last season, looked superb two weeks ago in a 16-0 triumph over Oakland but looked hapless last week after seeing a 10-0 lead evaporate into a 28-10 rout administered by Tampa Bay.

Although Denver allows only 232 yards and 11 points per game, defensive coordinator Joe Collier is using a psychological tool to help motivate the club for this week's challenge. Pictures of Sims, the No. 3 rusher in the NFC with 477 yards on 116 carries, have been posted on team bulletin boards.

The Lions, however, have problems at the quarterback position. Starter Gary Danielson has a dislocated wrist and is in a cast. Jeff Komlo started for Danielson against the Buccaneers and was later replaced by Eric Hipple. Each threw two interceptions.

Denver guard Paul Howard (calf) is questionable.

Elsewhere Sunday, Oakland is at Kansas City, Dallas at San Francisco, Cleveland at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles at Atlanta, Philadelphia at New Orleans, Minnesota at San Diego, Cincinnati at Baltimore, New England at the New York Jets, Seattle at Houston, St. Louis at the New York Giants, Tampa Bay at Green Bay and Washington at Chicago. Miami is at Buffalo Monday night.

The Raiders have gotten off to a 2-3 start for the second straight year, but they are in desperate straits after being shut out two consecutive games. Coach Tom Flores has announced rookie guard Curt Marsh will start in place of the benched Gene Upshaw and Derrick Ramsey starts for tight end Raymond Chester. Kansas City, 3-2, has been plagued by inconsistent passing from Bill Kenney. Steve Fuller — recovered from a pre-season knee injury — may be on the verge of reclaiming his starting job back. Rookie running back Joe Delaney has looked impressive with 312 yards, fifth-best in the AFC.

Two tied in NFC West

LA-Atlanta game critical for both

ATLANTA (UPI) — Last year's game with the Los Angeles Rams in Atlanta was viewed by the Falcons as the keystone to their first division championship.

Sunday's meeting may be the same.

A year ago, the Falcons trailed the Rams by a game prior to beating them 13-10 and moving into a tie for the lead in the NFC West. This time, the two teams (both 3-2) go into their Atlanta meeting tied for the lead with San Francisco, an underdog host to Dallas.

"Any time you play a division opponent, the game is very important because of the accompanying swing in the standings," said Falcons Coach Leeman Bennett. "But this one is even more so because the winner gets a leg up in the fight for the division championship."

Although both Atlanta is a three-point favorite, Bennett is concerned because the Rams have a three-game winning streak going while the Falcons have lost their last two after building an early two-game lead with a 3-0 start.

After losing to Houston (27-20) and New Orleans (23-17), the Rams have beaten Green Bay (35-21), Chicago (24-7) and Cleveland (27-16). The Falcons beat New Orleans (27-0), Green Bay (31-17) and San Francisco (34-17), but then lost at Cleveland (28-17) and Philadelphia (16-13), the latter this past Monday night.

"We have to get ready to play quickly since it is a short week," Bennett said. "The Rams are hot and we are struggling right now.

"Obviously, the Rams are a very talented football team. They seem to have no apparent weakness and we will have to play a sound football game in order to win. If we make the same mistakes we have made the past couple of weeks, winning will be difficult."

Los Angeles Coach Ray Malavasi says the Rams must stop the Falcons' running game Sunday.

"They have two excellent running backs in William Andrews and Lynn Cain and an excellent offensive line," he said.

The Rams' top runner, Wendell Tyler, suffered a pulled hamstring in last Sunday's win over the Browns and is listed as questionable for the Atlanta game. Malavasi, who is optimistic Tyler will play, says if Tyler's injury doesn't respond he'll be replaced by Mike Guman, who had 54 yards on 13 carries against Cleveland.

Atlanta was missing three of its starters — linebacker Joel Williams, defensive end Jeff Merrow and offensive tackle Warren Bryant — during its two losses and Bennett hopes at least two of the three will be back Sunday.

"Obviously when you've got starters out you miss them," Bennett said, "but to say that's why we lost would not be a fair statement on my part."

Bennett says his biggest concern is how the Falcons are going to react after those back-to-back losses.

"We'll just have to wait and see," said the Falcons' coach. "It's not like we haven't been playing well. In Cleveland, the breaks went against us; in Philadelphia, we both played well and they came out on top."

However, Bennett said he is planning some offensive changes.

"We're going to take a long, hard look at the films and see where we have been breaking down," he said. "The last couple of weeks we missed too many scoring opportunities, something we weren't doing earlier in the season.

"I'm not talking about personnel changes, rather changes in our offensive scheme of things once we get inside our opponent's 20-yard line. The one negative thing about our offense in the loss at Philadelphia was after getting into scoring territory we didn't get into the end zone. It takes the heart out of you to have long drives and not get anything.

"We must reduce our turnovers and take better advantage of our scoring opportunities. However, if we continue to give the kind of effort we showed the past two weeks when I don't think we could have played harder yet came up short, we will be all right."

Steve Bartkowski, his cracked rib just about healed, will start at quarterback for the Falcons. Pat Haden for the Rams. Bartkowski has completed 80 of 153 passes for 1,003 yards and nine touchdowns but been intercepted nine times. He's also been sacked 11 times, but only once by the Eagles.

Haden is 66-for-115 for 790 yards and five touchdowns with five interceptions and nine sacks.

Andrews is the fourth-leading rusher in the NFC with 439 yards and a 5.1 average.

Raiders' pride battered by 2 straight shutouts

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The pride has been battered and the poise is almost gone from "professional football's winningest team," as the Oakland Raiders like to bill themselves.

Counting regular and post-season contests, the Raiders had gone 241 games since last being shut out — by the Houston Oilers, 31-0, on the second weekend of the 1966 season. Oakland had recorded nine divisional titles, 11 playoff berths and two Super Bowl championships during that 15-year span.

But after a 2-1 start this season, the Raiders were rocked by shutouts on consecutive weekends by Detroit (16-0) and Denver (17-0) to fall into fourth place in the AFC West with a 2-3 record. Oakland had been shut out only four times previously in its 21-year history.

And Oakland's opponent Sunday, the Kansas City Chiefs, pride themselves on their defense as much as either the Lions or Broncos. But Kansas City Coach Marv Levy isn't building a false sense of security from what he has seen from the Raiders during the last two weeks.

"Paul Richards used to say, 'If you stay in baseball long enough, something will happen that's never happened before,'" Levy said. "It's the same in football. This is a good example.

"You see this type of thing all the time in baseball: a team gets shut out 2-0 in the first game of a doubleheader and then comes back to win the nightcap 14-2. One game has no bearing on the next one. It's the same in football."

A major part of Oakland's problems this season has been injuries. The Raiders are without two key offensive figures — all-time leading rusher Mark van Eeghen and their leading receiver in 1981 Bob Chandler — because of injuries. Van Eeghen suffered a pulled hamstring in the third game of the season and Chandler had to have his spleen removed following an opening-game injury.

The Raiders have also lost three starters on defense: nose tackle Reggie Kinlaw with a knee injury, linebacker Bob Nelson with a shoulder separation and safety Mike Davis with a broken leg. In addition, first-round draft pick Curt Marsh, a tackle, has been out since the pre-season with a rib injury.

Marsh, however, is to be activated and replace Gene Upshaw, the seven-time All-Pro veteran who had played in 207 consecutive games, while tight end Derrick Ramsey will replace Raymond Chester in moves designed to shock the Raiders' offense back to life.

But Oakland Coach Tom Flores is not about to offer any excuses.

"You hate to think you're team is pressing," Flores said. "We've won before and there's a lot of pride involved. Some players are trying to do too much. You can fabricate excuses for losing two games in a row. We've had a lot of injuries; we could use that as an excuse. But you've still got to play the game. Injuries are a part of football."

Be There.

Make a 20-minute visit for $3.84 or less.

It will never cost you more than $3.84 for a 20-minute phone call. Just dial direct on the weekend: all day Saturday, Sunday 'til 5 p.m. Or any night between 11 p.m. and 8 the next morning.

Many out-of-state calls will cost even less. So check the rate box below for specific charges. All rates are for a 20-minute call from Twin Falls to cities listed. Tax is included. Calls must be dialed direct, without operator assistance, and placed during the discount periods given above. Different discounts apply for Alaska, Hawaii and calls from coin phones.

So why not be there? For $3.84 or less, you can share 20 leisurely minutes with someone you care for.
